Who is Ylva, and why The Rune Witch Tarot

I call myself a creative life inspirer. I have interpreted Tarot for about 50 years, since 1974. I was mentioned in one of the most prominent newspapers in Sweden (Expressen) in 1993 as Sweden's Tarot Queen. More than that, in 2013, I was selected as one of the Top 11 Psychic Int. (a TV program in Ukraine with 53 million viewers).

The texts in this book give you guidance for each card from Astrology, Runes, Power Animals, Flowers/Herbs/Trees, Crystals and from Yiang (Color)

For me, everything is wholeness, with the elements as the foundation. When combined with the properties of numbers (numerology), astrology, energies from colors, and much more, everything can be developed and used separately but combined.

All these subjects have one thing in common—life—the system on which everything is built. For example, the number 1 has the same symbolism as the color red, the zodiac sign Aries, the Tarot card Ace of Wands, the Rune Issaz, the Crystal Garnet, and the power animal, the Rhinoceros. All of these, which you can interpret individually, are symbols of power. They are frequency energy, which we can experience through various symbols, which is basically what everything is about.

Yin and Yang

Knowledge of Yin and Yang is part of this deck to extract more from hidden symbols.

The feminine/Yin suits have black text (Cups and Coins), while the masculine/Yang suits have white text (Wands and Swords).

But the colors also derive from the symbol on my Yang cards. It is the Yin and Yang symbol with one or two colors instead of just black or white.

The Yin and Yang symbol represents the masculine and the feminine, as well as the positive and the negative, above as below, right as left, light and darkness—all the opposites between everything that is to what is nothing.

This is a universal symbol that most are familiar with, but have you thought more profoundly about this symbol? The white field is the masculine, and the black field is the feminine, but everything has an opposite, so there is also a dot in each field, creating the perfect balance of positive and negative.

This symbol shows everything that is a contrast; if you have up, you also have down, but a force is created by the positive and the negative, =KI.

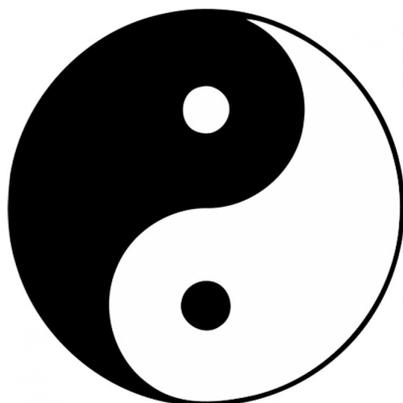

Vivacious is the bright, creative force, while Negative is not bad but the receptive, waiting experience. Yang is a symbol of the sun, while Yin is the symbol of the moon, including our shadow side, the hidden.

According to legend, Yin and Yang were created from chaos when the universe was formed as a balance in the center of the Earth. They are each other's extremes. They are also the energies that became the first men and women. Yin and Yang are the foundation of Chinese philosophy, Taoism, and medicine. These energies cannot function without each other as they are connected, but one can create imbalance by taking over, creating too much energy, even in our physical body.

Yin represents the left heart chamber and the right brain hemisphere, while Yang represents the right and left hemispheres. Together, the four create the Yin and Yang symbol. There needs to be a balance between feeling and thought.

They should have equal energy flow to create harmony; an imbalance is created when one dominates. This applies to everything from the macrocosms to the microcosmos. If there is too much Yang in nature, disasters occur, but the same happens if there is too much Yin. These two energies are constantly in motion within us as well.

Yin and Yang also symbolize the five elements. The large white field is Fire, while the small black dot is Water. The large black field symbolizes Earth, and the white dot represents Air. However, this can vary across different traditions and cultures. Fire and Air are always Yang, while Water and Earth are Yin. The four together create ether or, in Chinese medicine, metal.

These four parts of Yin and Yang also represent our seasons: Winter Solstice in the black field, the white dot represents the Spring Equinox, the white field represents Summer Solstice, and the black dot represents the Autumn Equinox.

The four parts also represent the day:

Morning - the white field.

Day - the black field.

Evening - the black dot.

Night - the white dot.

Yin is for even numbers (2,4...), while Yang is for odd numbers (1,3...).

Elements to Tarot

It is no coincidence that we have four elements, the corners are four, and the Earth is the fourth planet in our solar system.

There is much to learn about the elements because they govern our lives. Without them, we wouldn't have life.

The four elements are also found in our body and must be balanced there. If a person is governed too much by his emotions, then the water element is overrepresented. A balance of the other elements is required for the person to feel well again.

Colors from Yiang

Yiang is the combination of Yin and Yang, but not just black and white. Yiang has two colors, one in each field (as well as its opposite in the star), and a word representing that color. This allows you to simultaneously activate both the left and right hemispheres of the brain, giving you access to both thought and feeling=intuition.

The cards allow you to understand more about yourself and your energies, whether you grasp the symbolism of colors and chakras.

Based on the Yin and Yang symbol, I have created Yiang, the balance between opposites based on the energies that colors carry of negative, masculine, and neutral energy (ki, numbers 5 and 10).

In my right hand (the energy I emit), I have tattooed the Yin and Yang symbol in Magenta and Turquoise. Magenta (Negative) represents experience. Turquoise (Positive) represents change. They also indicate past and future, with the balance between being the present.

Red - Positive
 Orange - Negative
 Yellow - Positive
 Green - Negative
 Blue - Neutral
 Indigo - Positive
 Purple - Negative
 Magenta - Negative
 Turquoise - Positive
 Pink - Neutral
 Black - Negative
 White - Positive
 Gray - Neutral

Thirteen colors, 13 words = combination.

There are 12 base colors, each with an opposite. (names in parentheses)

Red (Power) - Green (Harmony)
 Orange (Impulse) - Indigo (Insight)
 Yellow (Purpose) - Purple (Intuition)
 Green (Harmony) - Red (Power)
 Blue (Awareness) - Pink (Infinite)
 Indigo (Insight) - Orange (Impulse)
 Purple (Intuition) - Yellow (Purpose)
 Magenta (Experience) - Turquoise (Change)
 Turquoise (Change) - Magenta (Awareness)

Pink (Infinite) - Blue (Awareness)
 Black (Stillness) - White (Bliss)
 White (Bliss) - Black (Stillness)

Gray (Balance) does not have an opposite but is a mix of black and white, while black and white represent everything in between.

If you learn the 12 words for the 12 colors, you have keys when interpreting. The words are at the bottom of each card. If only one color, for example, the Ace of Wands, is red, you find the word "Power."

Power animals (Totems)

Power animals are animal spirits that we can choose to have with us, much like a spiritual guide. According to some Native American tribes, we are born with nine animals by our side, each representing a characteristic that we should develop. In a way, you can also see a connection with your chakras, your essential traits.

You can use the power animal depicted on each card for positions 1-9 in the "Witch Rune's Web" to gain more insights. There is a text for each power animal on every card. If you want guidance specifically for power animals, you can lay out seven cards as follows:

The first power animal is placed beneath you, representing your driving force and foundation based on experiences from past lives.

The second power animal is within you, symbolizing your desires, affirmation, identity, and spiritual longing for further development.

The third power animal is above you, guiding you toward your spiritual goals. If you study chakras and energy flows, you can see that the first animal represents your physical aspect, the second animal is your emotional aspect, and the third animal is your mental aspect - three of the four layers of energy carried in your aura.

The fourth power animal is in the East, indicating your life's vision (read work role). The totem highlights the qualities you should develop further and use to strengthen your commitment to your expression.

The fifth power animal in the South indicates your emotions, experiences, and family. It's the totem that supports what you need to experience emotionally.

The sixth power animal in the West represents your security (read finances) and physical identity. This totem shows you how to create security.

The seventh power animal in the North represents your communication, identity, and personality. This totem reveals what aspects of your personality need strengthening and how you can create communication with others. It is also the power animal that guides you in physical well-being.

Then, you have two animals on each side of you, one to the left and one to the right. The left one reflects your background, what you bring from past lives, and your feminine energy. The right one shows your current actions, what you can create in the future, and your masculine energy.

These nine animals represent you, the gifts, and the energies you need to develop. We all have nine core totems that accompany us throughout life. By studying these animals and their characteristics, we can develop different facets of ourselves.

According to the Native American Medicine Wheel, all (power) animals are equally important, and all living beings together form a wheel where each one is a cog. If you remove one cog, the wheel cannot turn; all beings provide power to each other, maybe not directly, but certainly indirectly. All power animals are necessary; together, we form the total energy. Then there is the macrocosm and microcosm; mammals have an energy wheel, humans have an energy wheel, trees have an energy wheel, fish have an energy wheel, and so on, all coming together in the big wheel.

I hope you find your power, understand all the parts within you, use the totems you carry, and borrow power from a totem when needed. What does the loan cost? You respect nature and life and let each species live in harmony. For example, suppose you want to learn to swim better and borrow power from a dolphin. In that case, you can give back by donating money to a dolphin fund or by telling someone about something important related to dolphins - not your own spiritual experience but a natural flow.

Medicine animals are also another term for totems or power animals. The more you learn about each animal, the greater your awareness of the whole, the forces, and the energies each totem carries. No animal is more potent than another; a beetle has its energy, and an eagle has its energy; they give to those needing medicine (lessons).

Medicine is the term used by Native Americans and several other cultures, meaning what we have as a remedy, a solution to stagnant energy flow. See each totem as medicine, the medicine that a wolf has, for example, you need at a specific moment; another time, you need the medicine of a hawk, and so on. When our medicine wheel lacks a cog, which happens occasionally, we can become sick after losing an ability, a trait, an energy. The more knowledge you have about your cogs, the better you can find them the day you need that energy.

Astrology

On each card, you'll find an astrological symbol; memorize them, as it will be beneficial when interpreting.

All Aces = Mercury

2s = Moon

3s = Venus

4s = Gaia (Earth) or the Sun

5s = Mars

6s = Jupiter

7s = Saturn

8s = Uranus

9s = Neptune

10s in the Minor Arcana = Chiron

10 = Gemini

11 = Sagittarius

12 = Pisces

13 = Scorpio

14 = Libra

15 = Capricorn

16 = Aries

17 = Aquarius

18 = Cancer

19 = Leo

20 = Virgo

21 = Taurus

In the Major Arcana, the first nine cards represent the nine planets. Then, the zodiac signs follow, but not in the order of the Zodiac.

In the Minor Arcana, the first three cards, Aces, 2s, and 3s, represent the first zodiac sign of that element.

Wands = Aries. Cups = Cancer. Pentacles = Taurus. Swords = Gemini.

The following three cards, 4s, 5s, and 6s in each suit, represent the second sign of that element.

Wands = Leo. Cups = Scorpio. Pentacles = Virgo. Swords = Libra.

The last three cards, 7s, 8s, and 9s, represent the third sign of that element.

Wands = Sagittarius. Cups = Pisces. Pentacles = Capricorn. Swords = Aquarius.

Chiron governs Card number 10 in the Minor Arcana in all signs of the element.

You'll find these symbols in the card's left corner (when the card is in front of you).

You can also discover keys to which energy corresponds to which element. Every other sign is positive or negative. There are two fundamental energies, positive or negative, which are masculine (Yang) and feminine (Yin).
Each zodiac sign is positive (+) or negative (-).

Vivacious is a masculine force. Positive means it's an outward-directed, active energy.
Negative is a feminine force. Negative means it's an inward-directed, receptive energy.
There are four primary colors: red for fire signs, green for water signs, yellow for earth signs, and blue for air signs.

Each card appears four times for the planets, four for each element.

The signs in the Zodiac are as follows:

Aries
Taurus
Gemini
Cancer
Leo
Virgo
Libra
Scorpio
Sagittarius
Capricorn
Aquarius
Pisces

Runes to Tarot

With runes, there is also a similarity to, among other things, Tarot; essentially, it is about the same symbolism. The difference may well be that a rune can be perceived as more primitive and straightforward, while it is easier to create magic with a rune than with a card. For Tarot, 22 cards from the Major Arcana, you can find a corresponding response from each rune to each Tarot card. The elements' runes receive a card instead of four; thus, all 25 runes are equivalent to the 22 Tarot cards. The elements are fire, water, earth, and air, and they all come together on the Hermit card, number nine—the last card in the earthly part of the Major Arcana, where everything converges into a whole. The Hermit is also the one who can control all the elements, even just let them be, as he is aware of their power.

Uhruz = 1 The Magician
Pertraz = 2 The High Priestess
Wynjaz = 3 The Empress
Issaz = 4 The Emperor
Algiz = 5 The Hierophant
Odalaz = 6 The Lovers
Reidiz = 7 The Leader
Tyrax = 8 Strength
Kenaz = 9 The Hermit
Laguz = 9 The Hermit
Bjarkaz = 9 The Hermit
Hagalaz = 9 The Hermit
Jaraz = 10. The Wheel of Fortune
Naudiz = 11 Justice
Madrez = 12 The Victim
Ehiz = 13 Death
Gifuz = 14 The Wisdom
Ingaz = 15 The Devil
Thurisaz = 16 The Ship
Dagaz = 17 The Star
Assiz = 18 The Moon
Solaz = 19 The Sun
Fehaz = 20 Judgment

Voidiz = 0/22 The Fool
Bind Runes (binding runes)

There are five fire runes = Wands.
Issaz, the first rune created from ice, contains enormous energy that creates heat.
Kenaz, which is the rune for fire.
Uhruz, which is the rune for primal force.
Ingaz, which is the rune for passion.
Reidiz is the rune for determination and the rune that, in the rune wheel, turns the energy inward, creating the journey into inner knowledge, which requires energy.

The following 10 bind runes correspond with the cards Ace-10 in Wands. NOTE: 10 in Wands is not Issaz-Ehiz but Issaz with Jaraz.

Ace of Wands - Issaz-Ingaz
2 of Wands - Issaz -Naudiz
3 of Wands - Issaz -Dagaz
4 of Wands - Issaz -Odalaz
5 of Wands - Issaz -Hagalaz
6 of Wands - Issaz -Gifuz
7 of Wands - Issaz -Madrez
8 of Wands - Issaz -Eohez
9 of Wands - Issaz -Ehiz
10 of Wands - Issaz -Jaraz

There are 5 runes for the water element = Cups

Laguz, which is the first rune for the flow to begin.

Assiz, which is the moon rune, governs ebb and flow.

Jaraz, which is the year cycle rune, also governs rhythm.

Odalaz, which is the family rune, is based on blood ties.

Dagaz, the dawn rune, is when everything starts to flow.

Dagaz is the rune that forms the basis for the Cups Tarot, not Laguz, as it cannot be bound, nor Assiz, Jaraz, or Odalaz.

These bind runes can be linked with the cards Ace-10 in Cups.

Ace of Cups - Dagaz-Fehaz
2 of Cups - Dagaz-Assiz
3 of Cups - Dagaz-Wynjaz
4 of Cups - Dagaz-Hagalaz
5 of Cups - Dagaz-Thurisaz
6 of Cups - Dagaz-Bjarkaz
7 of Cups - Madrez-Dagaz
8 of Cups - Naudiz-Dagaz
9 of Cups - Dagaz-Gifuz
10 of Cups - Dagaz-Odalaz

Earth = Coins

There are five earth runes:

Tyras, which is the rune for will.

Fehaz, which is the rune for possessions.

Wynjaz, which is the rune for abundance.

Bjarkaz, which is the rune for security.

Pertraz, which is the rune for your foundation.

The runes linked with earth are air, except for the 10 of Cups, which is water-earth.

You cannot bind a rune from the earth element.

Tyras, Fehaz, Wynjaz, Bjarkaz, and Pertraz, as they all lack the primal staff; however, you can create a mix from the air element to the earth, except for the 10 of Pentacles, which has water-fire.

Ace of Pentacles - Naudiz-Wynjaz
2 of Pentacles - Naudiz-Ehiz
3 of Pentacles - Ehiz-Wynjaz
4 of Pentacles - Naudiz-Eohez
5 of Pentacles - Hagalaz- Wynjaz
6 of Pentacles - Madrez- Wynjaz
7 of Pentacles - Madrez-Fehaz
8 of Pentacles - Ehiz-Fehaz
9 of Pentacles - Naudiz-Pertraz
10 of Pentacles - Dagaz-Pertraz

There are five air runes = Swords.

Naudiz, which is the rune for consideration, consequences.

Thurisaz, which is the rune of chaos.

Hagalaz, which is the rune of change.

Ehiz, which is the death rune, transformation.

Madrez, which is the human rune.

Here, all the bind runes are combined into one air rune; the only rune that cannot be bound is Thurisaz. Hagalaz, Ehiz, and Madrez are the runes with the most bound runes together with Dagaz (water rune).

Ace of Swords - Naudiz-Tyras
2 of Swords - Madrez-Bjarkaz
3 of Swords - Hagalaz-Uhruz
4 of Swords - Hagalaz-Madrez
5 of Swords - Hagalaz-Laguz
6 of Swords - Madrez-Assiz
7 of Swords - Madrez-Reidiz
8 of Swords - Ehiz-Madrez
9 of Swords - Ehiz-Uhruz
10 of Swords - Ehiz-Pertraz

Personality Runes

Three runes are bound together on the cards called the people, court cards, or personalities. There are four in each suite: Page, Knight, Queen, and King. All the Pages have Naudiz as their strength, the Knights have Hagalaz, the Queens have Ehiz, and the Kings have Algiz. They are linked from the elements with Eohez for Wands, Dagaz for Cups, Madrez for Pentacles, and Hagalaz for Swords.

The Rune Witch Elemental Wheel

With this deck, you can lay out the interpretations as you are accustomed to, but you can start with this one if you like. You can choose whether to read all aspects from the cards, the runes from the Major Arcana, or all 78 cards. You can also read astrology or numerology, colors, or spirit animals.

I created the Elemental Star (Wheel) from a shamanic ritual called the "Flower and Tree ceremony" to interpret the Tarot. Still, you can get a good foundation from the runes for this, mainly since it revolves around the elements. You can just as quickly lay out 5 cards in a row and arrange them in any order you prefer, but the elements guide fire, water, earth, and air, which are the foundation of all life. Looking at different cultures' costumes, such as the Swedish Sami costumes, you will find these elements represented in color.

Red for fire, green for water, yellow for earth, and blue for air. There are five elements: fire, water, earth, air, and ether (void). In some cultures, the void is considered to be metal.

These five elements are a foundation and symbolism for our experience here on Earth. Fire = work, Water = love, Earth = economy, Air = health, Ether = soul.

East is the direction for the element of Fire. It is morning (03-09) and spring. Fire symbolizes power, commitment, what you are passionate about, and your activity. The area shows how you act, will, temperament, and creativity.

The direction for the element of Water is south. It is daytime (09-15) and summer. Water symbolizes emotions ranging from hatred to love: empathy, emotional perception, and expression. The area shows your emotional experiences.

West is the direction for the element of Earth. It is evening (15-21) and autumn. Earth symbolizes security, safety, the practical, and the foundation—what you have or don't have. The area shows what you have, gain, and lack.

North is the direction for the element of Air. It is night (21-03) and winter. Air is symbolic of consciousness, thought, health, and personality. The area shows how you think, plan, and structure what you create from the power of thought.

The Void is the direction for all elements combined; it is everything or nothing. Around the clock (0-24) and the entirety of that. The Void is symbolic of the inner, the soul, and karma. The area shows the key to what is most important.

The four elements carry knowledge, as do the day and the year. Everything is connected; everything spins clockwise. Life starts in spring (March 21) as the sun rises (03-09) when sowing begins. Summer (June 21) is a time of growth, between 09-15 to harvest the day's work in the evening 15-21, just like autumn (September 21) and winter (December 21), night-time 21-03 is a time of rest and thought (dreams). If you use this template to lay out the runes, you will more easily see the whole picture and find it easier to learn the runes.

The day of the 21st, with three months in between, is are essential time during the year.

March 21 = spring equinox, the beginning of the zodiac (astrology) year.

June 21 = Summer Solstice.

September 21 = Autumn Equinox.

December 21 = Winter Solstice.

In the East, you find the morning but also spring, the energy of fire that deals with action, energy, and creativity: It is how you express your energy; some call it work, but I prefer to call it activity.

In the South, you find the day and summer, the water energy that deals with emotions. Everything from survival hatred to love and how you express your experiences. I prefer to use emotions rather than love; you also have impressions here.

In the West, you find the evening but also autumn, the energy of the earth that deals with growth, the material—everything from nothing to everything. Security is my word; for others, it is economy.

In the North, you find nighttime and wintertime, the energy of air that deals with thoughts to action, questioning, and identity. If, like me, you see that thought creates physical (im)balance, this is called the self or health.

In the center, called the Void, which is all the energies or just emptiness, you find neutral runes (purple) that affect the whole soul.

You decide first what you want an answer to, in general. For a day? A week? Or a specific question. You shuffle your cards, cut once, then place the top card to the right (East), the next down (South), the third card to the left (West), one card above card number 2, and then one card in the middle. (see the image at the top).

You now have five cards on the table. The first one tells you what is there for you in the morning, during the first period, or in the spring, what your action is. The second card (South) shows what is there for you during the day, the second period, and your experiences. The third card shows what is there in the evening, in the third period, and what is in your foundation, security, or economy. The fourth card shows at night or the fourth, last period, yourself. The fifth card shows what is in your soul.

If you get more masculine cards, you are in expression (experiences). You are in impression (experiences) if you get more feminine cards. Read them separately, and choose which symbols you want to pick up from each card.

o/XII The Fool

The Fool shows the beginning of everything: no experience, an open mind, a being in what is, optimism and trust, and joie de vivre for everything. There is no evaluation of what is right or wrong; life is an adventure.

Yiang - Black

Black energy is so complete that it becomes oversaturated; all energy moves slowly.

Astrology

The sun represents the vital force, the foundation of all life.

Rune

You are open to life if you are drawn to the empty or the full rune. You have no limitations, or perhaps it is the only thing you have. Your inner driving force is your love for the universe and your fear.

Animal Spirit - Unicorn as Totem

It shows that you are a vibrant personality many are fascinated by but can be reserved. You can adapt to your surroundings and make others see things how you want them to. You help others see the magic in existence. You spread romance to the extent that it sometimes seems like you light stars in others' eyes. You are a protector of the magical and a guardian of all animals. You have a solid footing in your life. You know who you are, where you belong, and what kind of magic you can create in your existence. You are in your spiritual enlightenment, aware of your power and lessons. You know you are not superior to anyone else but are in a developmental phase where you can use your magical powers.

I The Magician

The magician has all the possibilities to create, see possibilities, or find new angles of things. With The Magician's energy, everything is possible; everything is a beautiful challenge to find development—the artist's energy to keep several balls in the air.

Yiang - Turquoise-White

A powerful aspect. Turquoise indicates changes, and awareness on a more spiritual level, while white strengthens visions, the spiritual quest. Turquoise energy fortifies the inner self as a secure balance and harmony, fostering spiritual growth for better or worse. What doesn't work needs to be released and rebuilt, while what works should be reinforced. In white, there is a conviction that the feeling is right, empathy, and a belief that everything can improve.

Astrology

Mercury is the planet closest to the Sun, representing the most dynamic energy. It involves mental power and communication—initiating, ensuring constant activity, and never accepting stillness. Mercury shapes your communicative aspect, driving you to reach out, connect, see, experience, and communicate with the world. Mercury governs identity, the image you want to present to the world. It indicates contacts, encounters, crossing boundaries, and universal connections.

Rune

Being drawn to Uhruz indicates you are active, engaged, impulsive, influential, and constantly involved in new projects or ideas. You possess an outwardly expressed driving force, security, and a strong will.

Wolf

Indicates that you possess strong leadership qualities and need stimulation from like-minded individuals. You are sensitive and influenced by energies. It indicates that you learn and teach, a bit of a lone wolf but constantly aware of where the pack is, where you belong. A strong identity, either you are an alpha male or alpha female or a member of the pack, but you belong with yours, playing a role for the pack to function.

II The Priestess

The priestess shows ancient knowledge, omniscience, and strong intuition. Development together with others but on the conditions of the Priestess. A free, courageous feminine energy that creates what it wants.

Yiang - Turquoise-Black

Turquoise energy is the color of spiritual development, indicating that you have reached a higher level of consciousness. You have merged blue (communication) with green (feeling), giving you a "higher understanding." Turquoise can also suggest questioning everything as it is and embracing what it is meant to be. Black, reflecting all colors, carries the dynamics of all power but also the ability to attract all colors for its benefit.

Astrology

The Moon reflects your emotions, experiences, romantic dreams, love, and longing. With the Moon, it's about balance, security, and support—constantly supporting, standing by someone's side, and creating a flow of emotions. The Moon represents your emotional life, romance, and love in expression, as well as your intuition and the influence of your mother or past life as a woman. The Moon symbolizes emotional flow in the symbolism of ebb and flow, a rhythm always present regardless of external events.

Rune

If you are drawn to Pertraz, it shows that you are secure in yourself and aware of who you are and your abilities. You may easily assert yourself as being overly focused on what you want to manifest. There's an internal struggle in the pursuit of balance, not just for yourself but also for others. You have an internal drive to manifest what you consider yours.

Lynx

The Lynx shows that you are the strong, independent type who follows your path and does what is essential to you. You quickly find new areas that can stimulate you; don't get stuck in areas or with others. It indicates that you are good at being silent when needed; others can entrust you with anything, and you take it to the grave, transform it, and release it; only those with the lesson keep it in their heritage. You know everything but say nothing. These secrets are equivalent to knowledge; you understand how everything connects and why certain things happen. You observe, store the lesson, and release the event. You carry your mysterious beauty that others can admire from a distance. Only those close, those who bear the silence, are allowed to come near. You enjoy gliding around in solitude, observing, and storing the lessons you see and understand. You know, understand, learn, and grow—all of which you keep only to yourself because you are closest to yourself.

III The Empress

The Empress shows a vital feminine energy constantly evolving, success in projects, creation, and growth of what is engaged in. Successful collaborations. Successful leader but can also indicate growing projects or pregnancy.

Yiang- Magenta-Black

This color combination may be challenging to comprehend before understanding how black can impact more than negatively. Magenta brings knowledge, experience, daring, and deep intensity. Black energy (color) contains all colors, bringing both advantages and disadvantages. Black energy carries completeness and emptiness simultaneously, along with a vital energy that dominates if allowed. In this energy, there is certainty and knowledge of all that is, was, and will be. Magenta energy holds depth, knowledge of the past, and an intense longing for perfection. These energies can collaborate but create conflicts, as they can become heavy and lead to a quest for the ultimate truth, which will always be evaluated. Together, they create dynamics, an intense energy that takes over most things and generates commitment in routines and all forms of energy expression.

Astrology

Venus, also known as the morning star, is the planet associated with love. It involves love, community, growth, relationships, family life, and creativity. Venus reveals how you seek companionship, the trust derived from your feelings to move forward or find balance. Venus represents your family life, how you express yourself in the closest circle, your background, upbringing, values, and your ideal picture of the whole. Venus symbolizes femininity in all forms, indicating a woman with growth, pregnancy, harvest, and community. Venus reflects your way of living, values, and desires, emphasizing that you do not invest in anything without a goal.

Rune - Wynjaz

If you are drawn to Wynjaz, it signifies your presence, generosity, creativity, and sharing your whole self. You perceive the entirety, creating balance in everything that comes your way. You generate more possibilities from everything; your inner drive is about realizing more of what already is.

Dolphin

With the Dolphin, you are a joyful soul. You likely hum your tune. You enjoy company being pleasant as long as no one irritates you. Perhaps you can slip away when you don't enjoy the atmosphere, always waiting for warmer waters. It indicates that you have found your spiritual truth and awareness and always know who you are in your life vision. You live in the present, understanding that guilt, shame, and a lousy conscience don't bring happiness. You did your best according to your abilities, so why dwell on it? You are playful because you know that life should be enjoyed now. Who knows if there will be a tomorrow? What's better than freely gliding under the sky? That's what matters - the present.

IV The Emperor

The emperor shows power and control. Collaborations that create more assets. Decisions are made based on structure according to what is. Intense will, own responsibility. Awareness of what exists.

Yiang - Magenta-White

It's an intriguing energy combination. Magenta and white together signify what lies behind the foundation, the experience from magenta, and the longing for the future in white. The perfect balance between the past and the future. Magenta represents the past, experience, and wisdom that is a part of what is. White signifies visions, possibilities, and the belief that everything is possible; the future is where all choices and expressions are created. Magenta and white energy together signify what lies behind the foundation and the experience from magenta—the longing for the future in white energy, the perfect balance between past and future. Magenta energy represents the past, experience, and wisdom that make up its makeup. White focuses on visions and possibilities and believes everything is possible.

Astrology

Gaia, as a reflection of the Sun.

Rune - Issaz

If you are drawn to Issaz, it shows that you are patient, allowing everything to have its time, knowing where you stand and your values. You possess inner stability and stillness, creating distance from things and people around you. You know your space. Your inner drive is about waiting and being in yourself.

Bear

The Bear indicates that you need time to take in impressions and digest them. You don't rush into anything and want to evaluate if it's a step you should take. It would be best to have stillness and silence; meditation can be a conscious part of your life, a quiet moment where you go into yourself to regain strength. You quickly work with dream energy, both creative and sleeping dreams, evolving regardless of the method. In the creative dream, you see your goal; in the sleeping one, you receive confirmation. You know you need quiet thinking before taking action, taking a break, and changing the environment to find your inner strength. Recharge your batteries to soon return with your full force; then, you are not to be trifled with. With the bear as your totem, you are strong, enduring, wise, calm, and well aware—that you can handle everything with your strength.

V The Pope

The Pope shows you have inner reflections, make decisions, and trust your knowledge. You have the energy of authority and further development. You look at the big picture, make decisions, and take on greater responsibility. You seek more knowledge and security in what is and what can become.

Yiang - Purple-Turquoise

Purple energy is about exploring insights to find your faith and spiritual identity. Turquoise energy urges you to connect with the soul and develop your personality through every change. Together, it becomes a quest with seriousness and inner strength to find the totality. These energies revolve around soulful and spiritual development.

Astrology

The planet Mars, it's about strength, power, and ambition. Always trying to get ahead, be the best and first, yet always caught in the middle. The martial planet reflects your mood, temperament, and how you act to survive on your terms. It also reveals how you handle resistance and how you tackle problems. Here, you can find your patience, endurance, and stress level. The planet is said to be warlike, embodying fighting spirit, intensity, strength, and contradictions. All these characteristics are present or questioned by this card. Mars represents the will to fight for your goals and a strong belief in yourself.

Rune - Algiz

If you are drawn to Algiz, it shows that you stand up for yourself and know who you are and what your gift is. You value yourself, and others strive for more expression of what is. Your inner drive is about realizing more of yourself.

Eagle

The eagle signifies that you are enduring solid, possess natural strength, naturally take your place, and command respect. It indicates that you are here to realize your self-belief, dreams, and visions, even making significant sacrifices for others and leading through pain, healing your surroundings, and learning that each individual is unique yet part of a whole. You gather experiences and build strength by daring the most unexpected and trusting your intuition. You spread your wings, protect those who need it, and fly when necessary, trusting that you'll find nourishment when needed. You carry great wisdom through eagle medicine; the art is to carry it correctly, to use it when it should be used, otherwise saving your strength until needed. You don't need to spread your wings to show their beauty; you know it yourself; that's enough. Spread your wings, take an extra flight, and see what you didn't see last time because everything is constantly changing; you know that. It's time to do something once again, better this time. What did you miss? Even if there was a purpose behind it, there's also a purpose in taking an extra round.

VI The Lovers

The Lovers show that you are in a created and strengthened community. You have someone to trust, like-minded people. Partnership, support, and support. It's the most robust card for a love relationship—love at a more profound experience level.

Yiang: Black-White

Black energy is so complete that it becomes over-saturated; all energy moves slowly. White energy that is nothing before something exists yet carries hope, like a blank page.

Astrology

With Jupiter, it's about expansion, freedom, and will. You are striving for positive growth, bringing others along. Jupiter shows where you come into your own, how you manage your resources, and is connected to your material values. It's the prosperous planet that propels you forward in life, overseeing your career and ambition. It also governs learning, development, and life's laws that you must understand and evolve. This is also evident in relationships - a continuous development, the need for a helper and an opponent. The person changes replaced as we evolve. We would have a hard time moving forward without encounters with other people. Jupiter also represents assets, successes, and factors that increase your inner and outer wealth. When Jupiter is in a positive aspect with you, your energy increases in the form that is strengthened.

Rune - Odalaz

If you are drawn to Odalaz, it shows that you seek companionship while being the first to lend a helping hand to others. You complement most, creating harmony just by existing. Your inner drive is about spreading love and harmony.

No power animal instead - Guardian Angel

VII The Leader (Chariot)

The chariot shows that you are now aware of your power, your awareness right from within the creation of your soul. You take responsibility for your actions. It is now that you can realize more of yourself.

Yiang: Red-Blue

The combination of red and blue energy signifies gathered willpower from awareness. An inner force that creates security. Red energy brings strength, stability, order, and will. Blue energy brings communication, development, identity, and action. With this energy, you know your goal, are aware, and take action. You are confident in your identity and easily take responsibility. Red and blue form indigo and purple, giving you power and attitude in your insights. But they also create magenta, indicating that your power and attitude come from knowledge and experience. You activate your will and strength to bring about change, act, and stand for what you act in. With this energy, you are more confident in yourself, knowing your strength, worth, who you are, and what you can handle. In simple terms, you are naturally secure in your identity.

Astrology

With Saturn, it's about structure and order, finding a neutral ground to grow from. The planet that reveals your hidden identity, way of being, expressing yourself from your karma, all your values, and the creation you have as a challenge to bring forth. The shadow side, resistance, can be found in Saturn; for some, it's simple karma; for others, a bit tougher. Many perceive Saturn as "dangerous"; learn to use the power instead of letting it use you. Strive to take care of yourself, be honest. The planet that reveals your identity, way of being and expressing yourself, values, creation, and the choice of an outer role.

Rune - Reidiz

If you are drawn to Reidiz, freedom, and personal choices are most important to you. It would be best if you were your own, went your way, and created new possibilities. Your inner drive is to pave the way for new challenges.

Fox

The fox shows that you are cunning, definitely going your own way, fully convinced that you know best. Strong individual, doing what you want, living your own life. It indicates that you move quickly, navigate where no one expects it and you can spy on your opponents by simply becoming part of the environment, tactically gaining an advantage. Fox Energy is kind but a bit naughty; it only uses its power to blend in and get what it needs when it needs to protect itself. It is time to act, move forward, bring out your invisible self, and assess your possibilities; now is when you can act based on everyone's awareness with your will.

VIII Strength

The strength shows that you are aware of your strength and power. You have the energy to realize whatever you have planned. You are strong in body, soul, and spirit. You are calm, safe, and matter-of-fact; take things as they come.

Yiang: Red-Indigo

The combination of red and indigo signifies inner strength, power, and courage. Red energy brings strength and fundamental security and stands firm regardless of events. Indigo energy is enlightenment, clear-thinking consciousness, and the will to look forward. This combination shows you are now willing to take responsibility and realize your dreams and ambitions. Your strength creates security, giving you control over most things, at least those you are involved in. Together, they provide strength to evolve and stand firmly in your identity.

Astrology

Uranus is about changing patterns, finding new paths, not getting stuck, finding new areas, and daring to challenge your strength. Uranus is the planet that shows your external and internal connections, how you behave, and how you are in the company—your identity to the environment. Reflections are also clearly present from the environment. It's the planet that reflects fear, uncertainty, and your balance with others. Put your social planet that shows how you are in the community with others, deepening connections, reflections, and karma. It's about insights into yourself through the environment and finding a deeper understanding.

Rune - Tyrax

If you are drawn to Tyrax, you are powerful, determined, confident, and never give up. You find a way regardless; in the worst case, you create a new one, but nothing stops you; focus is your inner drive.

Lion

The lion shows you are assertive, determined, and aware of your power over others. A bit lazy but active when needed. It shows that you are independent but still know when you need help and have such clear communication that help is available immediately. You are intensely aware of your identity and need to show your strength not to lose respect but also your values. You guide others and show them how to conduct themselves to stay on top. You enjoy life, everything that is just there for you if you want: pleasant company, rest, enjoyment, the present experience.

IX The Hermit

The hermit shows that you need to be alone, in self-chosen solitude, where you can philosophize and develop your thoughts. You need to release your focus on everything around you and find your inner awareness. You are looking to develop the skills you already have.

Yiang: Red-Pink

Red energy signifies strength, determination, strong will, conviction, and purposefulness. Pink energy signifies openness, a longing for total love, and harmony. Together, they create romantic dreams of the universe with solid dynamics. This combination indicates inner strength, capacity, and presence. You can also find the power from the white energy's attribute - Bliss. Since Pink is Red diluted with White. Red as power, White as Bliss = Power with infinity.

Astrology

Neptune is the planet that indicates your interest in spirituality and religion, the direction it takes in your horoscope. To look beyond the external, find your inner self without ego, and have trust. Neptune shows your higher self, spiritual inspiration, and expression—the quest for spiritual development, worldview, roots, cultures, and religions.

Rune (the four runes for the elements)

Kenaz

If you are drawn to Kenaz, commitment is essential to you. To give everything all the time, constantly initiate various projects, and be at the center of events. Your inner drive is to create and realize.

Laguz

If you are drawn to Laguz, you are in the feeling, in the experience, following the flow in everything you participate in. You are a caring present. Your inner drive is to "go with the flow" to be in the experience.

Bjarkaz

If you are drawn to Bjarkaz, you are grounded, secure, and stable. You see opportunities in most things. You value, take responsibility, and ensure that everything develops as it should. Your inner drive is to take care of what evolves.

Hagalaz

If you are drawn to Hagalaz, you thrive on changes. You strive to shake up most things and find new perspectives. Your inner drive is to cut ties and create freedom.

Owl

The owl shows you are wise, prudent, patient, and not in a hurry but waiting until you find the right moment. You seek the mysterious, the occult, everything that the night holds. Everything lurks around the corner that ordinary people do not perceive. Awake, alert, and observant, you absorb experience, whether night or day, black or white. Everything has something to give; the more you learn, the more you can create. The owl is a guardian of all knowledge; everything is written that already exists in the reality of writing.

X The Wheel of Fortune

The wheel of fortune shows you are in a phase of happiness and abundance of everything you desire. Most things work out; everything falls into place. You are in the best place at the perfect time, with joy, expectations, hope, and faith in the future.

Yiang: Magenta

Magenta as energy signifies experience and maturity. Magenta consists of red and blue, creating indigo when blue is strongest. Base energy from red creates security, foothold, and power. Blue signifies communication and awareness of the self. Red and blue as indigo (purple) show grounded spiritual communication.

Astrology: Gemini

You are curious, driven by an inner force to know more, to seek more development. You have a hefty dose of forward-thinking that sometimes makes you quite "pushy" and curious. You can't stay still but constantly seek development in everything. You are curious and believe you are all-knowing; you always find an answer or know where to find it. You want development in everything you do; there should be a goal in everything that happens, even if you're not taking charge; only you know why. You are active, probably the most athletic zodiac sign of all, likely due to your restlessness to constantly seek new experiences. It also makes you a globetrotter; if you're not packing your suitcase, you're immersed in brochures, books, the internet, or through various groups. You are a changeable person, often showing two sides: a calm, social side and an eager, lone wolf side. There are two extremes, two sides to everything. You find it easy to convey your messages; you seem to believe at one moment that everything should be lived now, making you very intense. But once you've expressed what you've absorbed, you retake a pause. Those who are uncertain can easily misunderstand you, but on the other hand, do you have time for people who drain energy when you have so much going on?

Rune - Jaraz

If you are drawn to Jaraz, you see the entirety in most things, wishing to create balance and imbalance, figuring out what is best in both. You give, you expect a response. Your inner drive is to question what it is.

Polar Bear

With the Polar Bear, you have a firm inner conviction, a spiritual insight into immortality that makes you dare more than others. You are profoundly in need of fresh air and open spaces. It shows that you are "cool" within yourself, aware of who you are, where your strength lies, and how to use it. You have plenty of extra resources to know where to put them—determined, focused, and never giving up. It's time to lean back, lie down, enjoy the freedom, let everything come back, and allow it to take time.

XI Justice

Justice shows that important decisions are made. It may be a decision by some authority. You have a responsibility to make your choice in what is. It would be best to accept the consequences of your actions—decisions for the next step in life.

Yiang: Magenta-Turquoise

Magenta symbolizes the mystery of knowing what has happened, while turquoise represents the knowledge of what is yet to come. Magenta signifies experience, memories, and understanding of life's various aspects. The turquoise color represents seeking, questioning, and unstoppable development. Together, they strengthen the pursuit of balance, continuation of positive experiences, and deciding what to leave behind.

Astrology: Sagittarius

As a person, you are philosophically profound, seeking truth and justice in everything. You persist until you find a balance. You may also have an interest in politics or culture. Eager to learn as much as possible, your restlessness may lead you to travel, seeking answers everywhere. Loaded with energy, you set goals and pursue them. You are outgoing, talking to everyone about everything. Language is no barrier to communication; you always find a solution to understand more. You strive to create sustainable frameworks while pushing the boundaries and challenging yourself to be profound on any subject, creating fascination with most things. You excel in organizing but struggle with taking responsibility, which can tie you down or become challenging. Always curious, you create new events, love change, and quickly become fantastic just for the experience.

Rune: Naudiz

If you are drawn to Naudiz, you seek an understanding of everything and why it is the way it is. You have a template for how you want everything to function, trying to shape it accordingly, curious and investigative. Your inner drive is to evaluate.

Raven

The raven indicates that you are intelligent, vigilant, in control, and willing to sacrifice to get what you want. You carry a mysterious aura. It shows that you possess a magical ability to see the unknown and contact what you need. Strong sight, the courage to see what is hidden, what others avoid. Brave, assertive, persistent in clearing out, bringing forth the pure, the power, the magic, initiating a healing process to achieve the goal in balance. You are steadfast in yourself; knowing who you are and where you are doesn't matter because you follow life's adventures, your karma, encountering what you need along the way.

XII The Victim (Hanged Man)

The Hanged Man shows that you are completely lost with yourself, hesitate, limit yourself, worry, and create resistance. You feel sorry for yourself, feel stuck, and don't want to move forward. You are looking for an easy way out, entirely without your responsibility.

Yiang: Purple-Magenta

Purple energy indicates spiritual openness, search, and development. Magenta signifies knowledge, memories, and a greater seriousness. Together, they reflect deep but fleeting energy—a longing for something that may seem unattainable yet still a foot in the past.

Astrology: Pisces

You are the romantic, the dreamer living in your bubble. You are expressive and engaged in what brings you joy. Everything else you're busy trying to avoid. What you haven't experienced can be dangerous or bring down your romantic dreams of everything that brings joy. You are expressive and engaged. You can be like a jumping jack sometimes, always seeking something new to make you happy because there's a fear it will disappear even if you are. You might as well guard against it. You are the one who dances through life; often, you stub your toes just because you don't want to see the harsh truth. Anything related to rhythm suits your mind; dance, song, music, but also delving into yourself to create in dreams. You are good at expressing yourself as long as it happens through some form of art. You often go with the flow, but if there's another way, you can do your best to glide into it to make the most of it. You may also have a tendency towards seriousness that makes you withdraw. For many, you can be perceived as easily distracted and confused, but if they only knew how much you have to keep track of, you are a seeker for the perfect, the ultimate that brings happiness. Sensitive, with a big heart.

Rune = Madrez

If you are drawn to Madrez, you know yourself for better or worse. Self-examination is essential; you analyze the smallest detail to find its foundation and changes. Your inner drive is questioning.

Bat

The bat shows that you seek the truth and dare to take the development it entails. You don't carry anything for long; each day brings new opportunities if only you dare to see them. It shows that you are a survivor; it doesn't matter what happens; you enter a state where you find your strength again, perhaps even gain more strength than before. You are good at handling setbacks, even if they come too often; test how much you can handle them. It would be best if you learned to develop your gifts to see the whole of the past, only carry the lesson, the possibilities instead of what limited you. It's time now that you dare to see, challenge fate, test yourself, how much you can let go and change in your life.

XIII Death

Death shows that you are in a phase of cleaning up, ending old things to renew or change what is now. You let go of the past and open up to new possibilities. You let go of control, trusting everything will be as it should be.

Yiang: Red-Green

The combination of red and green indicates powerful changes. You are now facing the challenge of creating something new from your feelings, but first, you must clean up the old junk before something new can take its place, reorganize, and take new paths in life. Red energy signifies strength, power, and the ability to create what you want. Green signifies harmony, balance, taking it easy, resting, and finding inner peace. Red gives power inner balance, and green inner harmony provides stability to the development. Together, they create a community of security in self-development. But equally a conflict between the force to push forward and the feeling of wanting to stop. These two energies complement each other, strengthening each other's characteristics.

Astrology: Scorpio

You are most likely intense and dramatic but also profoundly analytical. You are what others call a seeker; you intensely seek excitement. You thrive anytime unexpected things happen; a little drama never hurts anyone, right? If nothing else, you ensure more drama when you keep things going. You like to create conflicts, question, shake things up, all to see what can happen. Will it be the end of the world or not? You are fascinated by life but even more by death and everything that does not belong to the ordinary aspects of everyday life; the more unusual, the more enjoyable. You create drama with your passion; you are the personification of passion. You are fascinated by everything odd and might be perceived as a bit odd yourself, constantly balancing on the edge just because. You hope to find answers to the entire universe, but until you have it, you settle for a few odd interests that can develop you. You have no plans to stagnate; there must always be a more profound development regardless of the cost. The most dangerous is probably when you are calmest on the outside because that's when a lot is happening inside, whereas when you create chaos, you have inner peace and well-being. You are the one who never gives up; you give everything to reach the core.

Rune: Ehiz

If you are drawn to Ehiz, you are a person who thrives on development and finds it difficult to stay in what is. Most of the time, you want new energies, encounters, and entirely new developments. Your inner drive has changed.

Snake

The snake shows that you are flexible and adapt to the climate. You can slither around most things you want; ensure constant changes happen. It shows that you are a master at wriggling out of strange situations; you are where others least expect it. Others should never think you show your full range at once; suddenly, you have shed your skin and grown one or two centimeters. You're not afraid of changes but see them as development, an opportunity to grow a little more. You thrive in the warmth, lying curled up, relaxing, eating a bit, and taking time to digest food. Woe to those who dare to come too close; you are quick to poison them to get what they have that you can benefit from. If you've spoken with a forked tongue, the past may catch up with you even if you've left it behind. It's now time to show who you are - in the present.

XIV The Wisdom (Temperance)

The Wisdom shows that you are now in harmonious energy where you can access the whole of you. You are aware of yourself and your choices in life. You realize what you desire. You listen to your inner self, have peace of mind to stop, and find answers.

Yiang: Magenta-Rose

Magenta holds one foot in the past and the security of what already exists. Magenta also signifies wisdom, experience, and a blend of joy and seriousness. The rose indicates emotional openness and a spiritual willingness to believe in the best and envision possibilities. It signifies open feelings, romance, joy, and hope. Together, they create a balanced sense of right and wrong, past and future, in a delightful mix. Magenta represents wisdom, experience, longing, and joy mixed with a severe side. Together, they balance the sense of right and wrong, past and future, in a superb combination.

Astrology: Libra

You may be perceived as distant by many, but it's just that you need to sense and think before acting. You seek balance and harmony, often with considerable emphasis. Despite that, you have humor, value personal space, and your own pace. You seek security by hedging your bets in everything you do. The notion that you don't know what you want is absurd; when choosing between two options, it's because you want both. You've learned that others' patience is not as vital as yours, and sooner or later, someone will give in and give you everything you want. You strive for order and stability, the perfect balance, and you can't resist getting involved in conflicts of all kinds.

You're guided by the belief that everything has two sides, and both must be heard. This is also true for your communication; you enjoy communicating, but it must be balanced, with all opinions expressed. Not everyone has the same patience as you, but you solve that because you always have a solution. You fight hard to create harmony, basing your actions on your values; you, more than anyone, know what is right and wrong.

Runa: Gifuz

If you are drawn to Gifuz, you are well-balanced, calm, and secure. You listen inwardly and act outwardly, all at your own pace, according to what's important to you. You search inwardly for everything that happens. Your inner drive is to take in and process.

Horse

The horse signifies strength, motivation, a desire for personal freedom, and a dislike of being bound. However, once someone gains your trust, you won't hesitate to support them, even carry them if needed. You may feel that you exist for others, which can be burdensome. In such moments, a wild gallop into the open may be relieving. It indicates that you have strength, more than others, and you use it wisely. It would be best to have freedom, movement, and things to happen quickly without constraints. Yet, routines are crucial for you; once you fixate on an idea, that's how it will be. What happens depends on you; you draw strength and charge forward into your freedom, or you choose to go your way now, seeing where the road leads. You have the strength to face dangers and swiftly move past them.

XV The Devil

The devil shows that you put all the focus on yourself and now know what you want and make it happen. You trust yourself, your power, and your ability but seek more to give you more experiences and happiness according to your values.

Yiang: Orange-Magenta

Orange energy represents lust, creativity, joy, impulses, and a longing for camaraderie with all its follies. Conversely, Magenta signifies common sense, memories, and experience that dictates right and wrong. Together, these two colors combine experienced creativity that can overcome most things, recognizing the value of their fusion. The combination of orange and magenta indicates that you control your impulses based on your experience, creating more development.

Astrology: Capricorn

You are goal-oriented stubborn, and know what you want, but at the same time, you always want more. Despite that, you are stable, someone to rely on; your words stand as long as they fall within the planned framework. You are calculative in everything, both in work and private life, not doing anything without knowing what will come of it and if it can be further developed. It is practical and likely handy, but more in organizing than taking matters into your own hands. You seek structured progress, and few are as ambitious as you are. Goal-oriented on the first target but aware that there's more once you reach it. Planning, building, creating, and realizing are your goals, whether at work or home. You leave nothing to chance, knowing how to act to get the best out of everything. You might be too quick to judge others based on their achievements, which can limit you. On the other hand, it may also make you want to realize it since you don't like leaving things aside. You can be dominant without realizing it, always knowing how everything should be done because you've already figured it out.

Runa: Ingaz

If you are drawn to Ingaz, you have a strong will and self-awareness of who you are and what you want to create. You act directly, focusing on what matters to you. Your inner drive is a passion for everything that can be experienced.

Goat

The goat signifies endurance, a strong will to survive. You dare to see no obstacles but only possibilities. It shows that you are headstrong, going your own way, not letting obstacles stop you—the more complex the obstacle, the greater the challenge to be overcome. You never give up until you've reached your goal, always finding something to carry you forward. You are resilient, can handle most things, and see resistance as development—something cheerful. You can now enjoy care, meet your needs, be understood by others, be who you are, and be accepted without needing adaptation.

XVI The Ship (Tower)

The Ship shows that you are in a significant phase of change in your life, which you probably did not consciously choose. It is time to let go of what you hold on to, reflect, and reevaluate what you have today. Dare to let go to create something else that gives you more.

Yiang: Orange-Turquoise

Is it impossible to reconcile these two energies, or can it lead to an exciting development if you succeed? Orange represents creativity, impatience, speed, and the desire to create and engage in essential things. Turquoise is for restructuring, change, new experiences, and values. Together, they indicate a creative change, the desire to achieve and realize all ambitions. You are intense and thorough in most things, enjoy restructuring, ensuring that old events lead to new ones. This combination suggests changes that can involve conflicts. It can bring about decision-making anxiety as the impulse may pull in one direction while the desire for change may pull in another. It could also mean that the two energies create tumult around everything that needs to be created.

Astrology: Aries

Aries' sign is about your outer identity. Impulsivity is vital to get an idea and start one thing and everything in your thoughts. However, there's rarely the energy to complete what has been started. This is the signature of an innovator. You are aware of who you are, proud of it, not bothered by thoughts of anything else but that it's good as it is. You are likely curious, charged, intense, and outgoing with Aries' aspects. You want action and excitement. You believe in yourself, seemingly having good self-confidence. It can be challenging for you to be still, as patience is not your virtue. You act immediately after a thought or impulse, rarely seeing the result. It shows engagement, a strong interest in something, and constantly generating new ideas. You seldom give yourself time to pause, fearing stagnation or boredom, detesting not being stimulated. You are eager, always on the move, always the one to start something, but perhaps not always to finish it since you're already starting the next impulse. What you might need to work on is patience and avoiding restlessness.

Runa: Thurisaz

If you are drawn to Thurisaz, you are dramatic, for better or worse. You thrive in chaotic situations where you get to act quickly and take risks. Your inner drive is transformation.

Dragon

Dragon as a totem indicates that you can now show your full strength, power, your true self. Dare to use your magical powers, act for your survival. If push comes to shove, you've probably acquired your inner glow to eliminate what is not worth keeping. You can now bring forth the power you already carry and dare to act as you are. Those who can't face your strength will show you where their fear lies.

XVII The Star

The star shows you are in a lucky phase in your life, where most things fall into your hands. You succeed in your work, meet respect and honor, and realize your dreams. You create from imagination to realization.

XVIII The Moon

Yiang: Orange-Pink

The combination of orange and pink indicates that, based on orange, you feel the impulse that something must happen. Pink can either hinder you by getting stuck in longing, dreams, or the feeling of just being, but it can also inspire you to dare to realize yourself truly. Besides all the longing, there is also an inner dream and belief that everything can be created. Orange energy provides the impulses and the creative power to dare, long, and create. Pink energy gives wings to dreams; it creates trust and a longing to realize your soul's aims. Together, they give you a fantastic sense of being in the visions of what can be, a step for spirituality, a step for humanity.

Astrology: Aquarius

You are the true pioneer; you want to experience, see, and feel more of everything because you know there is more. You are the thinker; you philosophize about everything possible because you know there must be something more or another way. You quickly learn, find interests, and go all in to understand. Everything is important to you; nothing is impossible; it just might take a little longer to fix it. You are open-minded, joyful, naive in feeling, creative, and give your all in what you do in need of affirmation, and the energy you give out brings joy to everyone.

Runa: Dagaz

If you are drawn to Dagaz, you are a positive person who always finds yourself at the center of everything innovative. You quickly take up space; optimism flows. Your inner drive is to create joy.

Spider

The spider indicates that you are flexible, like to move around, enjoy spinning off into new plans and building a structure, and are good at creating images for others to understand what you mean. There's probably a little artist, a visionary, in you. You are good at keeping things clean around you; you want fresh energy. You are in the middle of a creative process where you can see the whole picture and pick up information from all different directions in life.

The moon shows that you are in your feelings, you are experiencing, you are in empathy, developing from your inner self: rhythm, creation, and creativity, one with your feelings. Emotional experiences.

Yiang: Pink

Pink is the energy of romance, emotion, passion, experience, enchantment, and drama. But you also give everything just for the thrill, the powerful feeling within you. You are harmonious, warm-hearted, and a bit naive in feeling creative, and you give your all in what you do in need of affirmation and that the energy you give out brings joy to everyone. With pink, you have more trust, a positive spirit, hope, and joy in all expectations.

Astrology: Cancer

You are a harmonious person who enjoys taking it easy with others. Your emotional experiences drive you. Homely loves your closest ones, to whom you give most of your time. You can tinker endlessly at home but have less patience if you are outside your comfort zone. But you are patient as long as it benefits your closest ones because, in your life, you live through others, family oriented. Your closest ones are the most important; their well-being is crucial; you have a sixth sense of sensing how others feel. You are good at caring, harmonious everything with a positive spirit, and intending to strengthen the community. You have a gift with your sensitivity and sense of creating well-being through a hug, presence, or baking buns; it doesn't matter. You find the right path for there to be harmony. You may be interested in home decor just because your home means the most to you; when you travel, you gladly take something to decorate to feel at home. You can be superb at cooking, but on your terms, more important that it is tasty than healthy. Even though you prioritize your closest ones, the goal is for you to feel good because you feel good when there is a well-balanced community. When hurt, you can put up your shell, close the door to contact, withdraw, very hurt. You can go through fire and water to reach the goal of harmony.

Runa: Assiz

If you are drawn to Assiz, you are a bit of a mystic. You explore the unknown, seeking answers to why everything is as it is. You live in dreams and are good at foreseeing the next step. Your inner drive is your sense of what it is.

Swan

The swan indicates you are a wise soul with memories from bygone eras, wise, waiting, and dreamy. You can sense what no one else sees and use dream magic to create what you want. The swan is the totem that carries the power of dreams. The totem that helps you dream, fantasize, and create your goals and visions. It shows security independence, yet a humility towards partnership. Honesty, loyalty. The swan knows the truth about dream magic, everything being thought, and the power of the dream; it's up to you to catch the dream and be awake enough to dream away. The swan stands for inner beauty, seeing beyond the illusion, daring to see the truth, and finding the beauty in what the eye catches. The swan helps you bring out your beautiful, dreamy self and let others see their illusion; if they have good energy, they see the beauty; if they have bad energy, they see the ugly. Having swan medicine means seeing the possibilities and visions in everything; the eye creates the image you see in your dream world. Strive forward, see the whole in what you go through, both the beautiful and the ugly, and transform your vision only to see the beautiful, but on the way there, you need to find the balance. Dream away, even if only for a little while; believe in what you see in the world of dreams.

XIX The Sun

The sun shows you in a rush of happiness filled with joy and anticipation. Now, you feel at your very best, enjoy what you are acting in, feel safe, and are entirely in your very best mood, with things falling into place.

Yiang: Turquoise-Pink

Turquoise energy signifies awakening, spiritual awareness of who you are, and trust that everything happens as it should. Awareness that things are happening or that you unconsciously set them in motion. Pink indicates spiritual openness, trust, being in the present, presence, trust, and openness to everything. Together, they provide unconditional love for life and spontaneous joy that constantly creates changes and improvements.

Astrology: Leo

As a person, you are expressive but also childish, a true performer depending on your open mind but also to create responses from others. You are cheerful, open, and want lots of free time with many activities, but you can always be in the center. You want most things to revolve around you subconsciously. You enjoy community as long as you have your place because you need attention. Without it, it becomes boring; you can't handle that. You have a strong will, a conviction that you know what's best; you gladly take up space, show the way, and create new, but you are the one who should direct. Despite your need to be the center, you also need your integrity, which makes you easily create facades that can adapt to blend in. You enjoy playing your way through life and are the one who gets along best with children and animals. You quickly decide, convinced that you are right; when you get an idea, that's what matters; you can do whatever it takes to carry it out because you know best. Strong-willed and playful is probably the best way to describe you briefly.

Runa: Solaz

If you are drawn to Solaz, you are a lively person who dares to go against the tide; you dare to be in your feelings and joy and do your best to spread a positive spirit. Your inner drive is your perseverance.

Crocodile

It shows that you have an inner strength that no one breaks in the first instance. Be aware of your power and what you can take for yourself. If it doesn't work with power, maybe it will with tears. It shows that you are aware of yourself, strong, fast, and intense when you want something, and never let go. If there's a risk of losing, you roll around and take a new grip; each time, your grip gets more robust, not worth arguing with you. You learn to enjoy just floating around, lying in "span," you never know what might come by. You are quick to take advantage. Now, you can slide forward, show your power, even take a moment for yourself, let the sun shine on you, and show who you are in all your strength.

XX Judgment

The card shows that you are aware of your choices. You look over what you have, what you have chosen, what you can choose. You can reboot most things in your life with more positivity.

Yiang: Turquoise

Turquoise is a spiritual color, a vibration indicating knowledge in the hidden, the search for truth, life, and development. Turquoise also represents changes; the energy strives for truth, and on the way there, everything that is not beneficial for the individual is destroyed. Turquoise is also the color and stone that ancient Egyptians and Native Americans used as protection against evil.

Astrology: Virgo

As a Virgo, you are most known for being meticulous. To have order and control and be a bit smart-alecky. You have everything under control, every detail, and you thrive best when you let others know what's what. You may have difficulty with changes, preferably wanting to know what's going on before you embark on something new. But when you do, you're all in. Nitpicky might also be another word that doesn't sound positive, but everything you try to organize is still for everyone's good. You want quiet, everything in its place. It becomes easier for you then because you take this responsibility very seriously. You care about what you can touch, even the physical; you can live the healthiest of all signs in your eagerness for perfection. Your responsibility is unwavering; you can be trusted as long as it goes according to your routines and structure. You can be one of the nicest friends if everything goes smoothly. In your responsibility, you can still change what you think could benefit from a "renovation."

Runa: Fehaz

If you are drawn to Fehaz, you are aware of the flow of life and open to everything that comes your way. You take in, give out, reassess, and create the best out of every situation. Your inner drive is the ability to listen to your insights.

Butterfly

The butterfly shows that you take life as it comes, dare to go through different stages just because it is so, and have trust in everything that happens. Strong in your personality, in your radiance. You shed your skin (possible clothes, not just the outer physical form) in different phases of life, becoming more beautiful with age. Use the butterfly during fasting periods, when you need to grow, and show who you are, at least for the moment. Indicates that you are mature enough for a process of change, to let go, start over, dare to see yourself as you are, and decide how you want to act, when, and in what role. You are an individual who can go into yourself and evolve from your darkness; through each process, you find your way to who you are.

XXI The World

The world shows that you are increasingly aware of yourself and your total capacity. You make more demands on yourself and what you desire in life. You have experience with creating the best for you.

Yiang: White

With bliss, a rekindling of what you previously received as a "shock" (even positive), you now have all the opportunities to take one step at a time to find your balance.

Astrology: Taurus

You can be perceived as well-being secure but also reserved. You can easily enjoy it as long as it suits your ethical needs. Kind, gentle, and in need of security that you see both in the community and the external. You are grounded, rooted, take it easy, and best suited to indulge in everyday things to which you add a little extra touch. There must be elegance and luxury; you value the material. You have great patience. You value life, all that you think is worth living for as everything that appeals to you in what you take in and experience. You have the stable, leisurely within you; you know everything has its time; it's about enjoying what is.

Runa: Eohez

If you are drawn to Eohez, you are present in life, open-minded, aware, and responsible in everything that happens. You take responsibility for yourself. Your inner drive is your ability to pause and reflect.

Squirrel

The squirrel shows that you are fast, intense, and direct. You charm your surroundings, offer yourself. Indicates that you are lively, alert, act quickly, and make the “strangest” turns in life; suddenly, you are just elsewhere than expected. You are an expert at predicting things; you know what you need later on to handle all situations, even periods when you need to be alone.

*Ace of WandsYiang: Red

Red energy indicates that you are in your primal force. You are charged, engaged, powerful, determined, secure in yourself, and know what to address. You are influential in your actions, with vital energy, focus, creative force, and strong will. It reflects an inner drive for survival that propels you forward. Red gives strength, takes strength, and demands strength.

Red exists in your roots, genetic heritage, and patterns. Red is your survival color. With red in your energy, you can be on the move, activated to take action. Just be careful not to “explode”; learn from this color and examine what is causing your irritation. Red signifies dynamism, life force, a strong ego, and incredible generosity.

Astrology: Mercury in Aries

With Mercury in Aries, you probably speak quickly and intensely and may even stumble over words in your eagerness to say as much as possible. You may also be loud when you are eager to express what you want to say. You speak your mind, often even before you have thought it through. Discussions are not your thing since you like to start it but have difficulty continuing after you have had your say. You may be too quick to form an opinion, then just let it go to move on. You can be intense in your demeanor in your interactions with others. You are likely the one who initiates the conversation but may not finish it as you are probably already in a new one with someone else. You are alert, talkative, clear, and intense in your contacts.

Bind Rune: Issaz-Ingaz

These two runes are both fire runes, strengthening the power of fire. In Ingaz, Kenaz faces in two directions, providing direction to everything necessary. The fire energy is decisive, secure, and stable, and with the power from all directions, the will to act and go all-in is strengthened. Use Issaz-Ingaz when you have lost interest, feel lost, and have difficulty focusing on what you wish to realize. The energy helps you find your motivation, act with power, and get started again.

Rhinoceros

Indicates that nothing can stop you once you have made up your mind—woe to those who stand in your way. You are strong, intense, ready to attack if needed, and happiest when you can conceal your outer self and be left alone. It shows you have inner strength and conviction; when your instinct says to act, you act without seeing what is in front of you, but you trust what you hear and can feel. It was not quick but very effective, quite brutal in your approach. Now, it's crucial to be cautious. You know your strength, but do others before they challenge you?

2 of wands

2 in Wands shows that you have a driving force, an inner force that makes you act and show ambition. You realize what you are passionate about. You continue to develop something started. You are ready to realize that you stand firm and challenge changes.

Yiang: Red-Orange

The combination of red and orange indicates that your willpower is gaining stronger momentum, a heightened desire to achieve your goals, more speed, and more motivation. It reflects influences, impulses, and actions being set in motion. You find it engaging and motivating, taking action, feeling the longing intensity, and making swift moves easier. You are driven by desire rather than common sense. The combination suggests that you are taking hold of something initiated and ready to bring your aspirations to fruition. You stand firm and face new challenges. Red provides power, while orange actualizes that power with its impulsiveness. Together, they create an intense energy that opens up opportunities for further development. This energy signifies speed, action, planning, longing, and intensity.

Astrology: Moon in Aries

When the moon is in Aries, your emotions are like a fire, quick and intense. You may yearn for more, even after experiencing a lot in the present. You're not one to shy away from giving your all, but you may struggle to stay present for long periods unless you're faced with stimulation or challenges. You're a quick lover, and if you feel validated, it's easier for you to stay. However, delving into deeper emotions may be a challenge at first. But when you commit, you're always seeking to deepen the relationship. You resist routines, always on the lookout for new emotions to experience. Quick in emotions, following the initial impulse, intensely passionate. Emotions, longing, empathy, the pursuit of the ultimate.

Bindrune: Issaz-Naudiz

With Issaz-Naudiz, you possess the energy of will, ambition, and the next balancing step (Laguz) in realizing what you have already created (Issaz). You take responsibility for your actions, understanding your foundational energy. Now, you need to continue consciously with what brings you more advantages.

Skunk

Now, let's explore the 'Skunk' personality. You possess a strong sense of integrity; others must earn their place in your life. You deeply understand who you are and prefer to evolve independently. This self-assuredness allows you to be carefree, knowing your inner strength will guide you. You have a knack for unexpected talents, and your personal space is not easily invaded. You enjoy your own company but also value the company of peers who understand your terms. Be cautious not to attract the wrong kind to see who can handle your strong aura. You find it easy to set new goals and are assertive, aware, and attentive to your surroundings. You're daring to explore, reveal yourself, evolve, and embrace new experiences.

3 of Wands

3 of Wands shows that some new or extra opportunity will come suddenly. You feel a new inner strength and seize the opportunities that exist. You dare to believe in your ideas.

Yiang: Red-Yellow

Here is a strength that sets in motion with strong willpower. You know what you want and how it should be executed. You have a firm foundation, making things work with confidence and structure. You aspire a lot but may become too action-oriented, experiencing a sense of abandonment. This energy signifies power, a will that can take over most things. You feel a new inner strength and seize the opportunities at hand. You dare to believe in your ideas. You can be determined, focused, and more aware of your power and abilities. Patience is lacking, and you throw yourself forcefully and impulsively into what you want to realize. It's challenging to pause and reflect on your choices and actions. The combination indicates that you have a solid foundation with intense energy to accomplish what you have set out to do. Red is the driving force, and yellow is the color of ego that takes hold of what you must realize.

Astrology: Venus in Aries

With Venus in Aries, you are more independent than initially perceived, but you sense experience, and then you're on to the next adventure. You need encounters that can bring variety, remaining secure while ensuring you don't miss anything.

You can quickly fall in love and give yourself all to invest in a relationship, but if it stagnates, you swiftly move on. You experience love here and now without a thought of what comes next. Restless in feeling may be perceived as restless; you may feel afraid of missing out. The notion that what you have now will not be enough or that something else gives you more.

Bindrune: Issaz-Dagaz

Issaz with Dagaz enlightens what is, who you are, what you do, and what you have, all focused without changes. You increase your awareness of your capacity, reinforcing your power and presence. This bindrune raises awareness of who you are fundamentally and how to strengthen your qualities. You are more aware of your potential, where you dare to take space, listen to your inner impulses, and act upon them.

Camel

Indicates that you are persistent, resilient, motivated in what you do, executing your tasks with good planning. You enjoy being alone even if others are around you. Stubborn, as stubborn as they come, can make the most peculiar turns if it doesn't suit you. Indicates that you are a survivor who always has an extra resource to tap into. In great need of transforming energy, refilling again. Impatient but persistent when needed. It's time to walk and contemplate everything that beckons: should you stay, move forward, or what? Don't let your mood mislead you; what is best in the present?

4 of Wands

4 of Wands shows community, a common goal is perfected. You can celebrate and take it easy; the work you've put in is paying off. You take responsibility, get feedback and support, and can develop further.

Yiang: Orange

Like its counterpart, Indigo, Orange's energy signifies creativity, expressed impulses, and a longing for community development. Orange is creativity. It brings joy, happiness, and a sense of community. Orange represents the joy of creation, creativity, desire, and a solid commitment to what you want to achieve: passion, strong desires, joy, spontaneity, and self-awareness of your abilities. Orange is present in your growth, from food, drink, and desire to continued creativity.

Astrology: Gaia in Leo

Refer to XIX The Sun.

Bindrune: Issaz-Odalaz

Issaz indicates the foundation of who you are; with Odalaz, it strengthens not only you, your physical body, consciousness, and experiences but also your connection with others on a deeper level. This bindrune strengthens who you are in relationships, providing insights into giving and receiving with others. It enhances your self-awareness, creating energy to interact with others in harmony. It provides an extra foundation; everything starts with who you are in relationships. Issaz-Odalaz supports you in finding your role in the community, creating security, and further development.

Elephant

You are secure in yourself, taking each moment as it comes, enjoying the company of others. You detest stress and thrive in collaboration. You protect your own. It indicates that you are strong within, with good values giving you even more inner strength. You likely have good hearing, being an auditory person - do you hear? Instead of - do you see? Your way of processing information is partly through your hearing but just as much through your sense of smell. Like the elephant, you can occasionally dip your trunk into things. You rely on your closest ones, those closest to you, your partner, your children - you protect them, forming a protective circle around them, allowing in only those who belong. You navigate through life, secure in yourself, more invisible than others might expect, available to those who genuinely deserve your attention. You trust your instincts one day at a time, ensuring you enjoy life and those around you as much as possible.

5 of Wands

5 of Wands shows that you have put yourself in a predicament. You may feel crowded, irritated, and challenging to take seriously. You are in a stressful situation where you lose control. Nothing turns out as you previously planned.

Yiang: Orange-Yellow

The combination of orange and yellow energy is a strong-willed impulse to actualize. It indicates ideas that spring to life with a strong ambition. You know what you want and how you wish to fulfill your longing to create. Keywords are ideas, commitment, and focus. Orange pulls threads, creates, entices, and wants to live in the experience. Yellow aims to structure, assert its will and create control. Combined, they become an intensity of scattered yet focused, intense, aware, and impatient energy in a delightful combination. These energies demonstrate your temperament, expressing the longing for the ego.

Astrology: Mars in Leo

You are intensely extravagant in your gestures, with grand displays and dramatic expressions that significantly impact you. Small things can make you moody and irritated, especially if attention is lost. You may find it challenging to gain respect, creating drama just to be seen and heard. Dealing with what it was all about takes a back seat and can be challenging. Instead, start prioritizing more clearly what you truly want. But in doing so, you must take responsibility; there are many other enjoyable things to do.

Bindrune: Issaz-Hagalaz

Issaz, as the fire element, is complemented by air, represented by Hagalaz, bringing more speed to what is happening. The air is more than the fire, which spreads the fire more than expected. This may result in more restructuring than anticipated. Use this bindrune, Issaz-Hagalaz, when you want to shake up the foundation you already have and know what exists but needs new insights. When you need to refine what has been created but doesn't feel quite right yet. This bindrune retains the existing foundation with Issaz, shaking things up with Hagalaz but within the existing structure.

Antelope

You are quickly confident but perhaps too reliant on others to find your security. You invest everything in those you believe in, making yourself available to those who need you. It demonstrates intelligence, knowledge, focused energy, and determination—the pursuit of balance, carrying the strength to act quickly, live out, and live in. Enjoy every moment, seize opportunities and limitations—what are those? Act now, gain advantages in the future, dare to let go of the past, grasp what you want to do, and see your possibilities instead of dwelling on what has been.

6 of Wands

6 in Wands shows peace and harmony. You have reached your goal and achieved what you wanted. You have a good plan and are confident in your actions. Dare to stand up for who you are and what you want to do.

Yiang: Orange-Green

The combination of green and orange creates an energy encompassing calmness and pace. The green wants to be in the moment, while the orange propels forward, letting impulses guide. It reflects an energy of both creativity and tranquility simultaneously. The green energy is in harmony and the feeling of what it is. In the impulsive, there is security; in security, there is joy. The orange energy indicates impulses and a lively spirit. It wants to create, be part of a social network, and ensure involvement in everything that happens. There is also patience in the green, while the orange is impatient in its desire to create. This results in what is created genuinely carrying a feeling. The green is self-assured, harmonious, and slightly impatient when combined with the orange. But at the same time, there is an immense patience and a desire to bring joy to others. You carry an intensity and joy in what you do, throwing yourself into projects with the conviction that you are "man" enough to handle all situations.

Astrology: Jupiter in Leo

You are self-aware, initiating enjoyable things involving people in various projects. You have several projects simultaneously, loving to jump from one to another. You enjoy being involved and feeling needed. You are social, an actual party organizer, a star in the crowd taking up space. You can also act professionally and privately, all to gain attention. You may end up in groups that might not be good for you in your quest for your place at the top, so be cautious with your desires. Know that you are as good as you are.

Bindrune: Issaz-Gifuz

It is the awareness of your power, victory over all pressure, strength, endurance, and presence. You stand for who you are, knowing who you are, what you can do, what you want, and how to realize yourself and your goals. Use this bindrune, Issaz-Gifuz, to increase self-awareness on all levels—how you act, experience, express, react, and think with your entire identity. The bindrune is about strengthening your awareness of your potential. It also helps you not to fear your inner darkness but to embrace all of yourself.

Giraffe

The giraffe enhances your vision, making you see far beyond what is correct before you, looking higher than many. It would be best if you dared to have visions, look in all directions, and broaden your horizons. It shows that you need to learn to see beyond what is right in front of you—things look different from a different perspective. As seen from above, most things appear smaller than they are, and you can be more significant than you are. With a step, you can go far; it's just a matter of looking in the most promising direction. It's time to open your eyes and see what you want. Dare to trust your judgment and act at your own pace; you have an overview, not everyone else.

7 of Wands

7 in Wands shows determination, a willingness to cope with everything that you want or with the responsibility that you have. You are stubborn, determined, and persistent. You don't give up until you have succeeded in what you set out to do. You move forward by your willpower in whatever you want to accomplish.

Yiang: Yellow-Purple

Yellow energy brings awareness, and purple brings spiritual visions. If they can be united, all dreams can be realized. This energy signifies strength, determination, and a longing that may feel unattainable. It involves creating fantasy and illusions of what is to be created. This combination of yellow and purple encompasses everything related to future dreams and visions. You are strong in your conviction, perhaps even passionate. Here is the will to grow, take control, and enable what you desire. A spiritual awareness that, with the right balance, can create new opportunities. Yellow energy brings awareness, and purple energy brings spiritual visions. If they can be united, all dreams can be realized.

Astrology: Saturn in Sagittarius

You question values. You march to your beat, hoping others will follow. You develop your antics, aiming to inspire others to join in. You may push yourself hard in the pursuit of the perfect life. You have a firm goal orientation to reach the top, be seen, and be the best. You express yourself strongly, encountering resistance to learn to stand up for yourself.

Bindrune: Issaz-Madrez

Issaz shows that you have the foundation within you, standing firm with Madrez, the rune for you as an individual, a personality. This bindrune helps you when you feel lost in who you are and what is essential for you to act with and in. Perfect for those times when you feel uncertain about how to express yourself or how you come across to others. It is also beneficial when you must stand up for yourself, give a speech, or be in meetings where you show your true self. Issaz-Madrez is the strongest bindrune for your external identity, the driving force that guides you from within where you stand firmly with who you are and your values. With this rune, you are driven by your inner conviction to realize who you are.

Hyena

This indicates that you are pretty uncomplicated, taking the moment as it comes and enjoying the company of others who share similar goals. You know how to extract the best from most situations, seeing opportunities even where others do not. Sometimes, you may feel a bit peculiar, but you are always ready to share a good laugh. It shows you are clever, bide your time, and take what you need. You have learned to see the advantages in what others overlook. You can take life with a good laugh, always finding a way to the next adventure. Take life with a good laugh, enjoy what is served, and realize you always have what you need.

8 of Wands

8 in Wands shows events set in motion and the environment's reactions and responses. It also shows what comes to you from the outside decisions, messages, and events that take off. You get answers and guidance.

Yiang: Yellow-Green

This combination is contradictory. Yellow is assertive, pushy, and takes space, while Green is calm, secure, and harmonious, waiting and making room for everything else. The energy combination of yellow and green signifies willpower and humility—being strong in your conviction but also aware that others may become involved, and you try to find a balance. In this combination, there is both willpower and humility, being strong in your emotional conviction and identity. The color combination is potent if you want to move forward in life. With the green, you have the emotional aspect, and the yellow helps you maintain open confidence. This allows you the opportunity to stand firm in yourself and evolve. Together, they become blue, indicating that they have reached a collaboration of energies (colors). They can openly express themselves and ensure you accomplish something based on this collaboration.

Astrology: Uranus in Sagittarius

You can be melodramatic, needing answers for everything, constantly on the offensive against everything. Everything should be dissected, analyzed, and questioned. Trust might be challenging for you as you suspect there's much more to work on than what appears on the surface. You are strong-willed and stubborn, but when you get the correct response, you can engage in enlightening conversations that make you feel the meaning of life.

Bindrune: Issaz-Eohez

Issaz is a fire rune, while Eohez belongs to ether (void), one of the five "spiritual" runes that symbolize you as a person. In this bindrune, your energy is combined with your foundation, creating a slow movement; with each revolution, you increase awareness of your abilities. Creating this bindrune enhances your awareness of the interconnectedness of everything, recognizing meaning in all things (the meaning you give it). You can follow the flow of what happens. Use this bindrune, Issaz-Eohez, to increase self-awareness, become aware of your boundlessness, and constantly charge more power with each energy revolution. One of the most positive bind runes, offering a constant flow of what you create. This rune is about your karma awareness of what your soul wishes to experience.

Zebra

Indicates that you know which stripes are what and where your own belongs. Others cannot distinguish their problem; you have the art of creating illusions. You can also be entirely black or white in your perception of things, either-or bottom or top. It shows that you are skilled at confusing and knowing who you are, even if others don't always see you for who you are. You are good at manipulating; you master the art of blending in adapting to the situation. Life constantly offers you choices—to pause, wander, pay attention to life, or notice the changes happening around you. Be alert, and you can make progress today.

9 of Wands

You know how much is required, and you are willing to do all the extra work to reach the end goal and meet your expectations. You are charged with energy, entirely in your power, to push through something vital to you.

Yiang: Yellow-Blue

With yellow energy comes the will to believe in yourself, be aware of your worth and how it can be strengthened, or achieve what you desire. Yellow energy signifies the will to believe in yourself awareness. With a blue open attitude, be aware of your role and responsibility. You possess great endurance that allows you to complete what you have started. You maintain an open attitude, knowing your role among others, and if not, you ensure that you are a significant part of what you want to do.

Together, these colors reveal a powerful personality and exceptional endurance. The combination showcases a robust personality with exceptional perseverance. You have willpower, clarity of thought, self-awareness, and an understanding that your role holds the utmost significance. This energy combination of yellow and blue signifies clarity, clear thinking, consciousness, and focus on what needs to be done.

Astrology: Neptune in Sagittarius

You seek answers to life, not just as it is now but as it always has been. You inquire about the reasons behind religions and why faith exists, exploring the spiritual values you grew up with and what lies behind them. You may be interested in past lives, both your own and how they affect the present. Restlessness characterizes you; you are always on the move, and travel is not foreign to you but rather the opposite. Philosopher truly defines you; you think deeply and extensively, pondering, absorbing more knowledge, and rethinking. You can deeply analyze everything and put it in a spiritual context, for you see the whole from the beginning of time to life after this one. However, you can also engage in escapism, neglecting responsibilities in your eagerness to find answers. You immerse yourself in spirituality when not in meetings or conversations with those who think differently, seeking more answers.

Bindrune: Issaz-Ehiz

Issaz is the foundation, stability with Ehiz, the death rune, or the rune of transformation. Here lies the power to transform and let go of what no longer serves its purpose. This bindrune provides awareness of what is, what is no longer needed, and what can be concluded, gathering the strength to start anew. Issaz and Ehiz together indicate that it is time to gather everything you need and what you can release. The foundation remains from Issaz; now you can take what you can further realize with the experience of what has been.

Tiger

This indicates that you command respect, with others avoiding confrontation and knowing what you want, taking it. It shows that you are persistent, resilient, stubborn, and know you can do anything. You are a survivor, taking what you need, and if no one can stop you, it's fair game. In between, you know how to relax and recharge on your terms. You know that others view you with admiration and respect—what else? You focus on your prey, know what you want, and should have it, and nothing will disturb your concentration right now. Anything that gets in the way will be consumed until you reach your goal.

10 of Wands

10 in Wands indicates work that should be completed. That you are facing a gathering of forces. Ready to move on, you take your work efforts to restart later with something else. You can now achieve your goals in projects that are important to you.

Yiang: Yellow-Indigo

With the combination of yellow and indigo, there is independent wisdom and will. A clear awareness of who you are and the goals you can achieve: focus, inner drive, stubbornness with a strong intuition about the next steps in completion. Yellow is protective of your identity, afraid to lose face, but at the same time, the energy that complements indigo to become more aware, balancing imagination and logic to realize your goals. Yellow strengthens you, making you not afraid of failure, losing control, and losing faith in yourself. You aspire to possess beautiful talents but must learn to follow the flow. Indigo energizes imagination and thoughtfulness, depth, and spiritual awareness. You are conscious and understand your goals, genuinely wanting to be yourself.

Astrology: Chiron in fire signs

Your vulnerability is that you may fear not being seen or taken seriously. You can feel insecure and go to extremes for others to notice you. But if you were to relax and be yourself, perhaps you'd get as much response from one person as from ten. However, you want many around you to feel that you exist. You may also know you have much to express, but you can get stage fright, fearing not being enough or entertaining the surroundings. What if you were to entertain yourself first and foremost?

Bindrune: Issaz-Jaraz

This bindrune of Issaz and Jaraz is unique, as Jaraz consists of two angled staves separated from each other. However, when bound together, there is no gap; it becomes a more complete rune, even though the carving cannot be done without division. You seek information from the energy of fire and earth in combination with this bindrune, creating a boomerang effect—you stand firm, receive an impulse, realize, and send back the result.

Hippopotamus

Hippo indicates that you know your strengths, know what you are capable of, enjoy routines, and like to be in the balance you've created. You don't need changes to feel good but glide at your own pace, following life's cycle. It shows that you are persistent and intense and do as you please. Take your path, the one that has always been there for you, not caring about getting lost in different projects but standing in what is familiar, safe, and works year after year. It's time to take your place, enjoy life and what the day brings, and take it easy. Follow your routines, find pleasure in what you can take for yourself—who will stop you?

The Page of Wands is a card that heralds the arrival of messages, often ones you can grasp and nurture. These messages bring opportunities that you have the power to cultivate. This power isn't limited to your professional life but extends to your actions and decisions in all aspects of life.

Yiang: Red-Black

The red energy signifies power, strength, determination, and a strong will. Black indicates an understanding of all energies and a clear awareness of what exists, but its expression can also be burdensome. The black has fulfilled its energy quota and does not need anything more. It can only stay in what it is. Together, they indicate a powerful survival drive ready to fight for what you want—motivated, in need of standing firm, and testing if the foundation is stable, which you probably do constantly.

Astrology: Fire signs

Children born in fire signs are often restless, full of activity, and desire constant change. Always on the move, with an ability to get others in their surroundings moving, too. Hot-tempered. Quick outbursts that quickly pass, strong empathy. They tend to want to speed things up too much. They are straightforward and impatient by nature; everything must happen now, or it might not happen. They need everyone to see, listen to them, and always receive appreciation and admiration. They can turn their restlessness into something stressful that affects everything and everyone. Hot temperament where much can be said in the heat of the moment. They can quickly end up in situations that are difficult to get out of due to too fast-paced events. They can be unstable, constantly avoiding responsibility for their actions.

Personality Rune: Ehiz-Naudiz-Ehiz

Chimpanzee

Indicates that you should embrace your spontaneity, hug your loved ones, give a kiss while you're at it, be present, and share your joy. Now is the time for all new adventures with those you enjoy being with. It shows that you don't always think twice; you do what feels most fun now—play, hug, jump, swing. Life is an adventure, and you always bring along someone who wants to have as much fun as you. Allow yourself to be in the moment, enjoy everything happening at that instant, immerse yourself in everything that happens, that is, all the things you don't figure out yourself, because you can have more joy and adventurous spirit with you, that feeling that you want to experience more and more.

Knight of Wands

Knight of Wands shows that now something is happening, often rapid change. It can be a business trip, but just as quickly, a new job or a project. Or maybe just a move; events are set in motion and forced forward rapidly.

Yiang: Red-White

This combination of red and white indicates that something is happening, often involving rapid changes. Red represents power and determination, an inner will to carry out things, while white stands for enlightenment and clear thinking. Everything that sets events in motion is present here, ranging from something as simple as expressing a need to an inner conviction. The energies together indicate that you have the strength to tackle and execute things; there is a well-balanced force, even if it sometimes lacks certain aspects. You have the power from the ground and the power from above.

Astrology: Fire signs

Young men born in fire signs are often very active, the first on everything new, often the ones creating the new. Powerful ambition can sometimes be too busy for their surroundings, with no time to pause. They can be restless, not irritating, but out of a longing for activities and events. They are often on the move; this is where travel comes in, being where something is happening, not opposed to changes or new environments. They enjoy trying new things, often together with others. They find it challenging to take it easy, to wait for their turn. They can quickly become irritated with others who don't understand or keep up with them. They quickly get into heated discussions or fights because they find it hard to give up or take it easy. They can also be perceived as arrogant or egotistical; patience is not their strong suit.

Personality Rune: Ehiz-Hagalaz-Ehiz

Panther

You carry authority, a strong will, demand an immediate response, take action, and anyone who doesn't follow or accept creates their limitation. For limitations, you don't know what they are; you take what you need and take your role seriously as the one with the final say. It shows that you are as far from a Pink Panther as possible; you have temperament, mood, and not much humor. You take yourself too seriously, not even accepting that line, for self-insight might be one of the challenges you face in life. You are both fully active and simultaneously charging energy for future commitments. You don't have time to wait; you act in the present with what is correct before you as long as it amuses you.

Queen of Wands

Queen of Wands shows the female role that rules over career and roles of responsibility. She is a woman with authority and strength, happy to get involved in everything. She likes to initiate events. She is a conscious and powerful woman who always manages herself.

Yiang: Orange-Black

The combination of orange and black reveals contrasts between impulsivity and stillness and more dynamism in impulsiveness for a moment before the energy is consumed. Orange energy signifies longing, desire, joy, spontaneity, impulsivity, and intense creativity as you want to realize your ambitions. Black energy represents dynamics, experience, emptiness, and all accumulated energy. Black indicates experience in various aspects, knowing what you are capable of and what experiences you have to develop further. Together, they signify a creative force that gives everything to gain everything and the conviction that you can achieve what you want. You bring solid experience, see opportunities, and are aware of your limitations, daring to fully invest in what you believe in.

Astrology: Fire signs

Women born in fire signs often act as if they have fire beneath them—constant progress, setting events in motion, quickly sweeping much along when they are in full swing. They can quickly get stuck in an ego role, wanting a lot constantly involved in various projects, making it challenging for others to connect if they can't keep up. Strong ambition, determined to show everyone, especially themselves. They see no obstacles but are like fire—burning down everything in their path and lighting small fires here and there, including in love. They quickly fall in love, preferably with several simultaneously, having an inner fire that never goes out. Often, faithful career women who want power not just to shine; they already know how good and effective they are. They constantly want others to "fan the flames" so the fire doesn't go out. Hot-tempered, but it passes quickly.

Personality Rune: Ehiz-Assiz-Ehiz

Puma (Mountain Lion)

You are strong, assert your rights, and look out for yourself. You don't need anyone to support you, prefer not to wait for others and manage your affairs independently and dynamically. This means you are intense and focused, gather your energy, and don't waste it unnecessarily but save it until you need to use it swiftly and efficiently. Attentive, observant, very careful with your territory; outsiders shouldn't step into the nearest area unless they want to be seen as fair game. Act without hesitation, seize what you can with your strength - after all, what you can take with your power is rightfully yours. Dare to show who you are and what you can do, and remember to take your time in your sanctuary without the influence of others.

King of Wands

The King of Wands shows career awareness, authority, and responsibility. Here, there is safety, stability, and security. A steady identity that is confident and decisive. A man to trust. Decisions are also made in larger contexts.

Yiang: Orange-White

The combination of orange and white signifies creativity stemming from visions manifested in creations. Orange carries the desire, longing, joy, and anticipation, while the white energy actualizes all that is desired. This makes this energy spontaneous, expressive, and creative. Orange indicates lust for life and an appetite for life—daring to be spontaneous, seeking companionship, evolving with white as an inspiration. White reveals thought power, focus, longing, alert consciousness, and spiritual experience.

Astrology: Fire Signs

Men born in fire signs are ambitious but on their terms. They believe they own the whole world, want to have control, and see what exists—hence a strong desire to travel to different countries and within anything that can be explored. They are self-assured and know what they're capable of. Others may find it very challenging to rise to their level in their eyes. There is forcefulness, ambition, and authority in everything they do. They want everything but can also share, mainly because they know they have total control, are skilled, diligent, and can realize anything. They don't give up easily, challenging to extinguish the flame that once caught fire. They may find it hard to listen to others, pause, and see what others are doing—it's not as important. They can be grudge-holding, stubbornly persistent, and sometimes find it difficult to see things from another perspective.

Bind Rune: Ehiz-Algiz-Ehiz

Gorilla

You carry responsibility and joy in good balance, give of yourself, and receive in return. You have security in your surroundings and are present in what matters. This shows that you are strong in yourself, have good cohesion, and are good at taking responsibility for yourself and your loved ones. You dare to share yourself, are moderately restless, and seek new horizons, but always with your closest ones close behind. You can now take it easy, enjoy life, have a banana, and lean back, but it would be most delightful if you could share the banana with someone, maybe even if someone offers to share a banana with you.

Ace of Cups

The Ace of Cups indicates something new with feelings or love coming into your life—a new love, a new relationship, a new experience that brings you happiness, joy, and well-being—possibly a child. It indicates a positive emotional experience, a renewed joy.

Yiang: Green

Green energy symbolizes harmony, community, unity, joy, and true spontaneity. Emotions are present in all experiences; they exist as they are in the moment. With green energy, there is warmth, stillness, and positive anticipation. Green is comfortable, green is calm, inclusive, adaptable, caring, kindness. Energy for harmony is a present energy with stillness, calmness, patience, and appreciation. With this energy, you are secure, harmonious, calm, taking a moment, trusting yourself. You possess inner stillness, a confirmed identity where you rely on yourself and your feelings. You likely love the whole world, wanting the world to love you back. You also bring optimism, love, and joy, gathering every one around you, wanting to share your inner harmony and happiness. You master the art of relaxation.

Astrology: Mercury in Cancer

Indicating that you have an easy time humming, speaking melodically, and having a soft demeanor. You enjoy talking about this and that, seeking communication even by having the radio or TV on to hear what's being said. You thrive with many of your closest around you, whether sitting down for a cup of tea or coffee and conversation or starting everyone on a bit of singing or karaoke. Your statements may be reserved until you gauge the situation to understand the conversation. You have a gift for implying, which may not always be the best, but you do it charmingly.

Bindrune: Dagaz-Fehaz

Dagaz is supported by Fehaz, stability, and a foundation that can create growth. With Dagaz alone, there's only the flow; with Fehaz, there's something to build on. With Fehaz, more gratitude and valuation are activated. There's a flow; with the foundation, relationships can develop, but more than just a flow is needed, something to build on.

Seal

You are one of many; taking the moment as it comes can be a bit too cool and reserved, which can stress others as you are far from easily influenced. This indicates that you are pretty cool. Yet, a bit positively restless, something needs to happen; you take charge and believe nothing wrong will ever happen to you. Naive, not out of disregard but from your experience in the present. You have learned to become a connoisseur, filtering through what suits you. You are where it suits your purposes best, not needing a fixed place or for it to look the same wherever you step ashore. The present matters: you don't bother with anything else for now.

2 of Cups

2 in Cups shows duality. Love. Community and the pursuit of the same goal. Mutual exchange, a harmonious growth. You may be in a rush at the beginning or a fresh start of a relationship. You feel validated and loved.

Yiang: Green-Blue

Green represents harmony and stillness; blue is outward energy that takes space and asserts itself, while green willingly shares its space. Blue energy indicates security and balance, the external reflection, while the green vibration signifies harmony and inner balance. Together, these two energies create turquoise energy, which is about change. Change happens with these two, from harmony to attitude, attitude to harmony, depending on the situation. There's a good mix of being in the feeling and expressing it. You can have an attitude that dares to be in the feeling. You express communication with expressions and with emotion. The energy of green and blue balances outward power and inward action well. Here, there's security, harmony, community, and development—all the possibilities to move forward, to evolve in balance with what surrounds you. You carry with you a sensitivity that is in total balance. The blue energy signifies security, balance, and external reflection, while the green energy signifies harmony, an inner balance.

Astrology: Moon in Cancer

You are in your experiences, constantly checking in to feel good and share your well-being with your loved ones. You are caring and always present to create harmony. Your foundation, security, and home are essential; the presence together matters. You create a harmonious atmosphere where everyone is welcome as long as they are pleasant. You can turn your back on those you do not appreciate, creating a disappointment that may be hard to release. Enjoyable gatherings, dinners, and barbecues appeal to you, especially the calm kind where everyone feels comfortable. You enjoy decorating to create harmony. Being with the ones you hold dearest is priority one; you give of yourself, create comfort, and depend on having your loved ones around you. You don't enjoy leaving your comfort zone, but if you do, you always create a sense of home comfort wherever you are.

Bindrune: Dagaz-Assiz

Assiz creates more positive drama in what already flows; the pace increases and the commitment strengthens from the existing feeling. A flow is created that has all the opportunity to continue. But too much water creates no security, only a temporary experience.

Duck

Indicates that you take relationships seriously, whether it's a romantic relationship, friendship, or family relation. You are there for your friend, assuming they are there for you. You do your best to maintain contact, hold things together, and build for the future, generation after generation. You enjoy being in the emotion but also want freedom, qualities from water and wind, which are your elements, the elements you feel at home with. Now, it's a matter of whether there is a community. Can you trust the one you care about, or is the question - Can you trust yourself? Dare to take the step; dare to build on the community you long for. All collaboration is going very well now, in perfect harmony.

3 of Cups

3 of Cups shows joy and community. You experience happiness in a goal that you had in your family and love life; together with others, you experience happiness and harmony. You are optimistic and loving, bubbling with happiness.

Yiang: Green-Indigo

Green energy brings love and harmony, while indigo brings trust, insights, inner knowledge, and analytical seriousness. Together, they provide inspiring love and experiences. The energy indicates harmony with deep insights. Harmonious insight shows maturity and inner harmony created by the realization that everything is exactly as it should be—trust. Green symbolizes love and harmony, while indigo represents trust, dreams, fantasy, and visions. When united, you have inspiring love.

Astrology: Venus in Cancer

It shows that you take emotions seriously; there's depth in the feeling, showing loyalty and strong principles of love. There's also love for family, home, and the importance of community, that everyone is there for everyone. There's a strong sense of responsibility, a longing to experience total love. You truly invest in relationships with those you love. You give everything and may sometimes have an image that doesn't match reality. This may cause disappointment when it doesn't correspond to what you long for. You may have patterns from your maternal side that can limit you and make you very strong regardless of what happens; you are the rock that holds everything together.

Binding Rune: Dagaz-Wynjaz

Dagaz is the rune of flow, balance, and stability, showing that happiness and joy are the foundation, while Wynjaz enhances all possibilities to realize even more, exceeding expectations. Confirmation that everything is better than it seems. This is the experience of joy and security, the empathy that strengthens, creating an experience of what is.

Otter

This indicates that you are a cheerful, easygoing type who takes the moment as it comes and gladly invites you to play. When life gets complicated, let the otter bring out the playful child in you; lie on your back and enjoy that the entire universe is above your head. You have an inner strength in your joy; dare to convey it, dare to be yourself, ignore if others come with control, must do what makes you happy. You get to do new things and throw yourself into crazy projects where you are the star, even if you don't see it yourself.

4 of Cups

4 in Cups shows saturation, that you have reached a certain level regarding emotions. Now, you are satisfied that nothing more is required of you. You may feel mistrust, be less, withdraw, and need time.

Yiang: Green-Purple

Green energy creates balance, harmony, and stillness with a longing for love. Meanwhile, purple creates a yearning for spiritual perfection through inner harmony and external reflections. Together, they create an intense longing for an experience, often something that can be seen as unattainable. There's a lot of drama in these energies from all the longing for confirmation, both emotionally and spiritually.

Astrology: Gaia in Scorpio

See "The Hanged Man."

Bindrune: Dagaz-Hagalaz

The combination of this binding rune indicates that you seek change and a shift in your emotions and need to shake yourself up. There's fear and uncertainty in taking action, taking responsibility for your feelings to move forward. The similarity is that this binding rune gives you the energy to reassess.

Frog

This indicates that you look after your needs, can adapt to different situations, then let go, move on without much impact, you dare to try new things. It means that you are sensitive to energies and easily pick them up. Use the frog to let the information pass through you, take advantage of what you need, and let the rest flow off you. Leverage your sensitivity, tune in, and let go. Use your power to cleanse and heal others and areas; with frog energy, you can let everything flow by being purified. How is it with your psychic power? With the frog, you can see into the hidden through water, in a bowl of water, in a bathtub, in a lake. Healing through water, bring in the frog, immerse your hands and feet in water, send healing, and balance imbalances in the lymphatic system. Take one leap at a time, wind down, and feel where the energies are leading you.

5 of Cups

5 in Cups shows emotional conflict. You don't know what you want and feel split feelings and loneliness. You are seeking confirmation from several at the same time. You may be in a choice situation where you create internal conflicts.

Yiang: Green-Magenta

Green signifies harmony, emotion, care, and community. Magenta represents a development from the past, seeking and confirmation. Together, they indicate emotional reactions, expectations, and doubts, as positive and negative experiences influence you. This energy may suggest a yearning to return to the past or a sense of security, a harmony you once had and felt secure in. This experience can strengthen the energy and create patterns.

Astrology: Mars in Scorpio

You have a will that consists of pure stubbornness. No one misses it when you express yourself, as you create drama, ensuring no one can miss it. You are strong-willed; you would rather die on the spot than give up. You can get irritated over trivial matters to make something happen. You can play out a whole spectrum to stir up energies. You can be sour, abrupt, mean, and aggressive. You are cynical in your way of criticizing when you feel attacked.

Bind Rune: Dagaz-Thurisaz

When Thurisaz, with all its shaking power, strengthens Dagaz, an emotional change occurs. You create an awareness of your emotions and what your feelings are. Your feelings are reassessed repeatedly, shaking things up and creating uncertainty about what is, eventually leading you to break the pattern.

Scorpio

You are quick, undoubtedly. You attack when you deem it appropriate, doing your own thing. It means you have a brave soul; you give everything in life, can be mysterious, enjoy living alone, seize whatever comes your way, and act lightning fast. The desert symbolizes emptiness, and the Void indicates that you are alone during something. To survive, follow your instinct. You can be hot-tempered, act too quickly, not wait for understanding or explanations, but act immediately—a sting, then it's over, living by the motto—no turning back. You are contemplating whether to sting yourself or someone else; what serves you best? If you sting yourself, perhaps someone else will go into the darkness. If you sting someone else, you may go into it without finding yourself again. You face a choice; dare to resist, wait.

6 of Cups

6 in Cups shows happy events and fellowship with consideration. It shows happiness and harmony with others, especially family members or people close to you. It includes family events that have a positive impact, parties, and more significant events.

Yiang: Green-Turquoise

Green energy signifies harmony, being secure in yourself, even when turquoise is present, indicating change. Green energy is about stability and presence, while turquoise beckons spiritual development, signaling it's time to pay attention to what's happening. While green creates stillness and harmony, turquoise encourages spiritual development, signaling it's time to notice what's happening. Even though the green-turquoise combination can create stability in change, the energy is fundamentally harmonious, with green being the dominant force. When combining turquoise and green, a giving and harmonious energy usually arises. However, it can also signal confusion and fear. Turquoise prompts development, while green longs for stillness and affirmation.

Astrology: Jupiter in Scorpio

You can be intense, restless, and always seeking more to dissect or develop. You are also inspiring and completely passionate when engaged in what you love to do. There's a bit of a therapist in you; you may desire to help others understand, and you might excel at it, making it your job. You may succeed in the "new spiritual therapist" industry. You like everything that creates excitement and drama; you handle stress well, and it seems you're good at managing it.

Bind Rune: Dagaz-Bjarkaz

This bind rune gives you balance in your growth and development. It allows you to access what you need and eliminate what you no longer wish to have. Bjarkaz adds and subtracts from the perfect flow. Look at the symbolism of the birch, the tree that drinks the most water, having access to all the fluid it needs, giving the potential for growth. Also, the water isn't wasted but flows perfectly, symbolizing growth.

Iguana

You are wise, observant, and cautious, watching until you decide to act, which can be unexpected. Equally surprising is your ability to completely shut out the outside world and disappear. You do what suits you. You exhibit a slow pace in your movements but can move swiftly when needed. Your memory is unique among your kind. Be present with yourself, pause, take in, evaluate, think again, and ensure you find freedom in your actions.

7 of Cups

7 in Cups shows concern for yourself. Who am I? What do I want? What should I do? You have many questions, no answers, but much to choose from. Emotions guide your actions; there are many emotions. You don't know what you want to experience, are afraid to miss something, be without, and want security.

Yiang: Green-Pink

Green provides security, joy, and harmony, strengthening togetherness. The energy is self-assured but always seeks confirmation from something else. Pink is adept at providing confirmation and unconditional love. It strengthens all romantic dreams, although, on the flip side, it may sometimes let things drift a bit too much. But this combination is loving, representing boundless love. Green signifies security, joy, caring, love, and giving, while pink enhances all these qualities, making them more vulnerable and overactive. Pink possesses the "same" qualities but on a more spiritual level.

Astrology: Saturn in Pisces

You question everything hidden, everything that others seem to hide or not see. A significant question could be whether there is life after death. For what is everything about? Is it worth living, creating, and longing for? You may carry a heavy heart with glimpses of profound insights.

Bindrune: Madrez-Dagaz

Here, identity merges with light, the realization of who you are and who you can be again when you find your personality. You need to focus on who you are at your core and be flexible. Use it when you are unfocused, lost in who you are, have difficulty finding or being yourself, don't know what you want, and need support sorting out all emotions to stand up for yourself.

Turtle

You are secure and stable, not in a hurry, and taking one thing at a time. Inner peace, awareness of what has been, what can happen, letting everything have its time. You're cool. It shows that you're an incredible person, taking the moment as it comes, taking it easy. If rushed or others demand things from you, you can always retreat into your shell. Time to relax, contemplate who you are and your goals, unwind, pause, reflect, and meditate. You now have the opportunity to grow within yourself and enrich your true self. Consider your role towards others and their expectations of you, and speak up when you want to take it easy.

8 of Cups

8 of Cups shows emotional relationships with those around you, where you are satisfied to a certain extent. Still, you have an inner division with the rest—longing for love, to be validated and loved. You judge yourself based on what you think other people think of you.

9 of Cups

Yiang: Blue-Pink

Blue involves communication, self-awareness, your attitude.

Pink represents unconditional love you feel from your heart without expecting anything in return. Another aspect is that everything is eternal, everything is now, and there is only a positive and anticipatory feeling. Together, they indicate expressive emotion, openness in communication, and vulnerability.

Astrology: Uranus in Pisces

You are a deep and romantic soul who lives by your feelings, which can sometimes be up and down. You may mix this and that, which can confuse you more. When the feeling becomes too intense, it may make you more or less disconnected for shorter moments. However, you ground your feelings and belief in life, especially yourself, as new experiences await.

Bindrune: Naudiz-Dagaz

Dagaz, as water, shows that all emotions are in balance, while Naudiz, as air, questions what is, wanting to whirl into what a stable foundation is. This bindrune is perfect when you get stuck in the circumstances, find it challenging to feel, hesitate, waver, and have difficulty deciding to move forward. Use it when you need more seriousness in your desires and imagination to create balance in who you are and what you wish to realize for yourself.

Penguin

The penguin wants to teach you not to take yourself too seriously while recognizing your uniqueness. Be flexible; go with the flow; you have the energy and ability to pause; be in yourself. But you can dive deep into what brings you joy, or you can choose to glide along if you don't want to engage in a swaying dance at your own pace. It shows you are moderate, happy, and unpredictable, even if others think you know where you are. You have extra energy, can handle large crowds, enjoy groups' active events, and can stop in one place to bide your time. Become aware of your energy and take one step at a time toward your goal; you have the energy with you to achieve what you want. You know how to acquire what you lack; someone else always has more.)

9 in Cups shows contentment, that you feel good about yourself and are satisfied with life. You thrive and feel good, and socializing works with joy and harmony. You enjoy everything and everyone; you take up space by inviting yourself.

Yiang: Indigo-Pink

Indigo for development, spiritual awareness, and inner balance.

Pink energy is openness, unconditional love, giving without expectations, inner joy, and spiritual optimism. Together, they strengthen inner communication, joy, and spiritual spontaneity.

Astrology: Neptune in Pisces

You are deeply and spiritually interested, probably more in neo-spiritual religions than traditional ones, but if you are stuck in the latter, you are convinced. You may also seek answers in various Western cultures. You may love planning trips, preferably to warmer countries. Sometimes, you may have dreamed and fantasized a lot about them, even if they don't materialize in reality. You may easily drift away, romanticize, dream away, and fantasize about a better world with the realization that it's pretty harsh out there unless you decorate it. A good eye for beautiful things and details, even in the spiritual realm. You may easily sense energies but sometimes give them more significance than they deserve. However, you have a strong gut feeling that you should rely on more. Through liberating dance and song, you can strengthen your spirituality.

Bindrune: Dagaz-Gifuz

Dagaz with Gifuz shows all possibilities; you have the foundation, all possibilities that are now strengthened. With this combination, you can create more of what you already have, reinforce what you desire more of, or realize.

Lizard

Lizard shows that you are a dreamer who dares to have visions and likes to immerse yourself in your world but may not permanently close your eyes to what is happening, perhaps just seeing it differently. Indicates that you are a dreamer. It means someone who can create magic with the dream, dream up what is needed, see the future through the dream, and even see the cause of what is happening if needed. You are part reptile with the ability to survive purely instinctively and understand the game's rules. But you can change by entering the dream world and creating what you need. Perhaps it's time for you to take it easy, pause for a while, dream away, find a sanctuary, a calm within yourself. Let the dreams tell you about what's happening around you, where you are, where everyone else is. Seeing has power, but abusing it doesn't happen until you dream of others' dreams.

10 of Cups

10 in Cups shows a happy family situation. There is lots of love and shared joy. You are in harmony with everything and everyone. You give of yourself, get back, and create a strong community that has the opportunity to develop.

Yiang: Purple-Pink

The pink vibration shows openness, joy, and spontaneity from the heart: an inner joy that spreads outward, thoughtfulness, and a positive spirit. Purple provides inspiration, joy, intuitive feelings, openness, and spiritual curiosity. Together, they create an aura of romance and longing, joy with a harmonious expression.

Astrology: Chiron in Water Signs

Your weak point is the fear of not being confirmed for who you are instead of your role in creating security and confirmation. Dare a little on your intuition; sometimes, it gets things right, and the times in between, consider them as lessons. You probably can sense everything and everyone, but that doesn't mean it's your responsibility to save the world but solely to enlighten your awareness.

Bindrune: Dagaz-Odalaz

A bindrune to use when you want to bring new energies into the home with the family. It becomes more robust with two water elements in a perfect combination, as families should be made. Dagaz and Odalaz create the perfect flow with an extra experience. You can experience more emotions together, find peace, joy, and care, and strengthen your presence.

Whale

Indicates that you have immense knowledge, confidence in yourself, and balanced psychic abilities. It shows that you have a vast consciousness, more significant than you know, and in hindsight, you might react to having seen or known what would happen. Within you lies all knowledge; you know, feel it, sense what has been, what is now, what will be. A strong telepathic ability; you can communicate with everything around you, inherent in every cell of yours as part of you. However, because it's so natural, you may not know it or see your full capability. It's time to listen to music or the rhythm of nature; what you seek is around you when you find the rhythm again. Now is the time to show who you are and what you can do; your knowledge is worth sharing with those who want to know and connect. You find kindred spirits from the past.

Page of Cups

Page in Cups shows that positive events will come to you, something that brings joy. An appreciation that comes your way via gifts, letters, courtship, or the like. You are a positive experience of spontaneity and anticipation.

Yiang: Pink-Black

Pink energy indicates a more open spirituality, a spiritual vibration, and openness between dimensions. Black signifies awareness of the universe and knowledge of the vibration without necessarily reflecting on why. Together, they indicate a more profound quest for the ultimate truth, a spiritual openness to development.

Astrology: Water Signs

Children born in water signs are often very emotional. They feel, at all times, with themselves with others. All emotions come out at once; they often considerably understand their surroundings. Imagination can be significant, sometimes even more incredible than reality. They find it easy to live in the emotion, to be able to express it. They are the children who go most efficiently as if gliding over water. They are the ones who sing, hum the most, and take an extra dance step now and then. They have a great need for security confirmation, constantly feeling that they belong to a specific framework. They can suffer from temporary depression and quickly lose control of their emotions. Easy to get low self-esteem. Becoming very sad, isolating themselves while easily crying; it's real crocodile tears, and the whole world collapses at once.

Personality Rune: Dagaz-Naudiz-Dagaz

Dragonfly

You are a bit special; fly your way, seize the moment, leave nothing to chance, and charm your surroundings before you leave, perhaps for good. You create magic in others' eyes and illusions in your own. This indicates that you are an exciting person seeking a balance between most things you encounter, but also development, well aware that everyone has their wings to carry. You can shift colors and show what others want but don't forget what you want. You master creating illusions, sometimes so good that you fall for your tricks. But with your ability to make everything fall into place and utilize the resources around you, you have all the opportunities to enjoy what is what can be; just spread your wings. Dare to take the chance to try something new, let go of the lost illusions, and create something based on your dreams.

Knight of Cups

There are loving proposals as well as a lovely community. Shared joy, experiences, spontaneity, passion, and solid and overwhelming emotions exist. You have a twinkle in your eye and are in the experience of most things.

Yiang: Pink-White

Pink indicates spiritual curiosity and divine love, the ability to see and experience more than everyday reality. White expresses openness and exploration of spirituality. Together, they become a powerful aspect of spiritual development, which unfortunately doesn't have much foundation but a lot of potential for development. This energy combination, pink and white, is high-frequency, indicating that you are open, spiritual, and spiritually aware.

Astrology: Water Signs

Young men born in water signs quickly go with the flow of life—they enjoy being with other people as long as it's not too subdued and severe. They seek joy in a certain superficiality but are adept at understanding feelings, especially their own. They engage in conflicts the least, as their emotions lead them to light positivity. However, they can easily have conflicts with themselves. They think a lot, can feel a bit too much, and can fall into depression due to overthinking, unfortunately, and also into addiction, especially alcohol.

Personality Rune: Dagaz-Hagalaz-Dagaz

Chameleon

It shows that you can blend in instead of being unique as you are. You might not see your greatness, and encounters with like-minded individuals could be what you need to learn that you are you. It shows that you blend in wherever it suits you and are a master of wandering, even if it's about your emotions (temperament); for others, it's about adapting to the situation. You can capture prey from a distance, not missing the goodies behind you or on the side; you have an eye on the situation. Look around. Is there something you miss? Do you see the whole picture? How should you act, wait, or act? If you see the whole picture, you have the answer; if not, retake a look in slow motion.

Queen of Cups

Queen of Cups shows experiences of emotions from small to large, from disappointment to deep love. You can seek answers to being loved, appreciated, and needed. The personification of tenderness, nurturing, and strong positive emotions.

Yiang: Green-Black

Green energy contains tenderness, care, security, peace, and harmony. It signifies feeling and empathy, a secure motivation to pursue what is essential, and the courage to express feelings.

The black energy is full of vitality, enhancing the green but consuming it as it drains energy.

It gives and takes. Black energy signifies that you've embraced your experiences—from misfortune to happiness—and you develop what provides the best experience to move forward with. Together, they can be vital in experience but create a feeling of waiting and blasé. It can become an excess of emotion. Together, they create focus, an awareness of being present in the moment, and taking responsibility for your experiences. Now is the time to pause, be in your experience, feel security, and take everything as it comes.

Astrology: Water Signs

Women born under water signs are often compassionate and capable of sensing the context in everything. They can be incredibly loving, unsure of how deeply they want, and constantly needing to return to their inner source and change form. It's challenging for them to determine what they are, following the flow until they feel the need for more. They quickly sense things, appearing by your side, offering support whether you want it or not. They can be prone to getting hurt, turning emotions upside down; there might be many tears and dramatic outbursts. Their empathy is immense; they efficiently act, often wandering around, humming, or engaging in dance, needing constant movement around them.

Personality Rune: Dagaz-Assiz-Dagaz

Flamingo

As a water sign, you have the art of dazzling your surroundings, shining as a personality. You dress unusually but tastefully. You enjoy seeing your reflection from a high perspective. Move at your own pace, regardless of admiration. It's crucial for you to be aware of yourself, take pride in yourself, relax, gather your closest ones, and enjoy life. Life is meant to be enjoyed in the moment, in perfect harmony. Most things lie ahead of your feet, but you might need to delve deeper into your emotions to find more of what you seek. If you trust yourself, follow your feelings—everything is there for you. This emphasis on self-awareness empowers you and puts you in control of your life.

King of Cups

King in Cups shows community with others and secure family or friendship situations with harmony, love, and joy. You make decisions for family and home. You are strong in your emotional experiences and think you know best.

Yiang: Green-White

Green signifies harmony and security: stillness and an awareness of the present moment. White represents a global consciousness and an understanding of each choice and action. Together, they indicate increased awareness, a sense, and a sensitivity that enhances harmony. White is not a color but all light that strengthens what is. You are a humble and sensitive person who enjoys sharing yourself with others. Sometimes, you may give too much and empty all your reserves to experience as much as possible.

Astrology: Water Signs

Men born in water signs are generally positive and happy, especially when everything goes as they wish. They go with the flow, seizing what's present, and are good at communal activities. They often have grand dreams for the future, not just for themselves but all humanity. They immerse themselves quickly in everything and can be easily hurt, and regaining trust after being hurt is challenging for them. They are intense with their feelings and can go to extremes, especially concerning habits and dependencies that appeal to them. Imagination and playfulness accompany them throughout their lives unless turned inward in bitterness. Everything collapses when things don't go as they wish, and nothing is left to the imagination.

Bindrune: Dagaz-Algiz-Dagaz

Octopus

This indicates that you are versatile, quickly entering your inner world, but can also harness the power of ink. It shows that you are strong, independent, comfortable with your energy, and may have a short fuse or strong integrity. You demand respect and will go on the offensive if you feel you're not getting it. It's challenging for you to settle for what feels essential. You can easily switch roles as needed. You can act with your power, seize all the opportunities you know exist, and dare to delve into the depths of what is.

Ace of Coins

Ace of Coins indicates a renewed material standard and improved economy, a new financial start or event, and a more stable foundation from something new. You know what you have and what you can create. You are safe, secure, and decisive.

Yiang: Yellow

Yellow energy signifies a will, the strongest of them all. This card has only one energy - Yellow- but in everything, there is an opposite: purple. These two energies are about identity and integrity—knowing who you are externally and internally. Yellow is the energy of the ego, but the ego is not just a negative aspect; it's about your identity, the fundamental will to realize what it is. This energy indicates strength, focus, and control. Since the purple energy is the opposite, a more profound contemplation strengthens.

Astrology: Mercury in Taurus

Indicating that you consider before acting, you communicate first about what needs to be done, are thoughtful, and need feedback before taking action. You listen first, then speak when you know what's happening and there's value in it. Your conversations always have a tone of value, security, and culture. You value actions more than words; you need an extra touch for it to be appealing. You can be slow, deliberate, a bit reserved in your communication, and prefer saying less than talking in excess; what is said needs value. Others may perceive you as deliberate, taking your time, but some also learn to appreciate your gentleness; when you say something, it's thoughtful and with authority. You stand by what you express because it's well thought out beforehand.

Bindrune: Naudiz-Wynjaz

Now, abundance can be created from what you have invested in before. You are aware of the value of what you possess. More positive energy, assets that you can develop further. Pay attention to what already is. Use Naudiz-Wynjaz when you want to see more clearly what you can create more of when you need to reassess what is, increase your assets, and create from what you already have.

Badger

You have a strong personality with great integrity, always going your way regardless of the cost. You may have a keen interest in the occult. You are strong, stubborn, determined, focused, and not giving up until everything is over, even if you have to go down with it. You may have a hot temper, but it only applies to your territory and what you believe in—nothing should control you. It's time to be on guard, check out your house, see what's happening, who wants what you have? Dare to bring out your temper, assert yourself, and take space. Dare to confront; you have all the power with you, and others will sooner or later back off when they encounter your strength.

2 of Coins

2 in Coins shows financial balance and imbalance. When you need to think before you shop where you now also have the opportunity to shop. You've come a long way in your material standard, now it's just a matter of planning correctly so that it's not lost in the future.

Yiang: Yellow-Magenta

Yellow energy is self-aware, while magenta carries memories, patterns, preconceptions, and blockages. Within this, there is a balance between the new and the old, what you want to do with the old, and what you believe is right. You may find it challenging to move forward, perhaps equally tricky to move backward, involving self-realization but quickly getting stuck in old values. Now, you can merge old knowledge with new experiences. You are self-aware, wanting to realize yourself but easily getting stuck in old values. Dare to embrace the yellow energy and create more from the self-assurance you carry. In this energy, there is independence and confusion at the same time.

Astrology: Moon in Taurus

Shows that you are secure in your feelings may be perceived as a bit gentle. It also indicates that you are present, trusting, and harmonious. For you, romance is a good dinner or a shared cultural visit. It would be best to have structured values to feel secure in your emotions and give your best in a relationship. You like to take care of decorating your emotions to give them that extra finish. When you love, you are entirely present and give everything. But you may need security before giving of yourself, and it is within the given framework of the expected structure.

Bindrune: Naudiz-Ehiz

It is time to make changes to your values, avoid stagnation, dare to question what is, rethink, and reflect on what you have, what you can choose to keep, and what you can let go to create more in your life. Carve on your wrists or over the thymus chakra when you are willing to let go of your values over what has been; when you are ready to change, let go of the focus you've had.

Weasel

You are fast, intense, trusting your instincts. Indicates that you are persistent, agile in your way of being, sneaking forward, taking what you need, and living in your own space, where your rules apply. Restores balance in your environment. In motion, in change, you follow the path in front of your eyes, always finding something.

3 of Coins

3 of Coins indicates assets coming your way. Also, there are new events that can pay off further down the line, probably training of some kind. You are curious about most things; you develop yourself, observe others, and learn by seeing and trying. You are open to most things you offer or create yourself.

Yiang: Yellow-Turquoise

Yellow and turquoise indicate intelligence and determination, the will to realize one's spiritual visions. This combination shows determination, structure, and intelligence. Yellow represents spiritual longing, the soul's goal to evolve. Together, there is a strong will to accomplish what needs to change.

Astrology: Venus in Taurus

Indicates a search for harmony and total enjoyment. There is a desire to be pampered and a longing to be loved and adored. There is also a need to have serious people around you to feel wholeness and security. You thrive best with peers, enjoying companionship. Significant could be large family dinners, elegant parties, or gatherings of cultural value where good food and interests are mixed. You are probably a bit of a star chef who likes to offer something good, making everyone around you feel good. Which, in turn, confirms and makes you feel secure. You are the epitome of harmony as long as everything goes smoothly and is controlled. You are mindful of your well-being, eating right, moving right, preferably with others. You would be perfect for managing a health retreat where all your nurturing qualities would come to fruition. You can turn every meal into an experience. Food is essential to you for its proper nutrition and the well-being it provides for all your senses and ideals. You are happy when everything goes as planned and not fond of surprises.

Bind Rune: Ehiz-Wynjaz

Wynjaz and Ehiz provide support with more possibilities in what you now dare to let go of. By letting go, you can embrace the diversity of what you desire. You can create more if you allow everything to change because you have assets you probably don't perceive now.

Mouse

It shows that you are a bit of a perfectionist in your way. You see, notice everything, and are willing to seek what you want, even if it means difficulties steering your drive there. Mouse energy means that you see everything; the negative is that you also see what others don't want you to discover. Small things like strands of hair on a sweater can be what a mouse discovers, picking at. The mouse lets nothing escape; it can come in handy sooner or later. Having mouse energy means you end up in the "line of fire" more than once; you are the one many want to catch and take advantage of. You are a bit of a "lone mouse," always on the hunt, escape, ready for a cat around the corner or a bird of prey in the air, or perhaps the next lure leads directly into the (mouse) trap. It's time to use what you have or start seeing what's there, what you can use, what you can move forward with, and where the help is in your stock. See that even the most minor thing can start something big and set the ball rolling.

4 of Coins

4 of Coins shows stability, a good foundation, security, and stability. Here, you have control over your material and financial resources—you know precisely what you have and the conditions to keep it—safety with some stagnation. You value what you have; you can lock yourself in values.

Yiang: Orange-Blue

Blue and orange are the energies that signify self-awareness. Blue strengthens your integrity and willpower, while orange enhances creativity, creative expression, longing, and development. Here, there's a sense of seeking together with others but with a focus on yourself. You possess a strong will and a solid foundation to create and actualize what you believe in. This energy is conducive for a musician, combining creativity, passion, and a strong sense of identity. You keep the rhythm in the flow, which ensures everything works according to your desires. Combined with two intense energies, it indicates a robust personality—self-awareness and an eagerness to create and manifest. You are creative, eager, impatient, and lacking in patience—wanting everything now, desiring to realize and enjoy what exists. You readily involve others in your pursuits, yet the blue energy makes you inclined to prioritize yourself.

Astrology: Gaia in Virgo

Refer to "The Judgment."

Bind Rune: Naudiz-Eohez

With Naudiz as a foundation, you can be more aware of what you need to evaluate, while Eohez indicates that everything exists, always offering an opportunity for further development. Eohez provides perspective, both from limitations and growth. Focus on the whole but also the parts of the whole, micro and macrocosm. Find balance from the ground up and decide how to continue creating.

Beaver

Indicates that you are versatile, quickly delving into your inner world and harnessing the power of creativity. The beaver signifies strength, independence, and comfort in your energy. However, you may have a short fuse or strong integrity. You excel in finding new paths and always have an exit strategy to restart from the beginning or change direction if needed. You dare to venture into something on the side because you always have an extra route to escape if required.

5 of Coins

5 in Coins shows financial confusion when you have lost your financial security. You do not have confidence in your ability; you may think you are not worth what you desire. You create limitations in most things to confirm that you cannot develop further.

Yiang: Orange-Indigo

The two energies, orange and indigo, contain creativity and creation more than any other colors. They originate from the soul, embodying a deep longing. Separately, they excel, but when combined, an overflow of energy may lead you to burn bridges. Immersing yourself in a project might cause everything else around you to crumble. Orange and indigo complement each other, reinforcing and limiting each other's qualities.

Orange is more expressive, while indigo is more introspective. One acts outwardly, the other inwardly, with the goal of self-realization. Orange represents creativity, passion, and physical desires, while indigo represents creativity from the soul, an inner longing that needs expression. Together, they create highly charged energy, drawing from both the body and the soul in pursuit of realization. While positive, handling this force requires skill. The dual longing seeks equal engagement; an imbalance can result in the energies canceling each other out, leading to inner powerlessness. Orange strengthens your role by expressing your inner longing, while indigo reinforces your role by experiencing and internalizing that longing.

Astrology: Mars in Virgo

You may be critical, easily irritated, and remarkably resentful. You seek outlets to express what you deem right or wrong. Attempting to maintain order, your inner frustration grows when it's absent, reinforcing a need for control and escalating irritation. It seems like you search for small things to be irritated about—an effective way to deflect more significant issues you might feel incapable of controlling. You may long for peace and tranquility but don't create it because you can't resist meddling, mainly to see what happens when you speak up or remain silent.

Bind Rune: Hagalaz-Thurisaz

When air meets air through chaos and restructuring, anything can happen, undoubtedly tumultuous, shattering patterns and limitations.

Rabbit

You tend to adapt to circumstances, playing along until someone challenges you, and then you flee immediately. You have a lesson in handling caution and fear, indicating some fears to work on, letting go of preconceived notions, and relaxing. While quick to act, perhaps too quick at times, patience isn't your strong suit. You're good at avoiding troublesome situations but equally adept at attracting the most peculiar scenarios. It's time to release preconceived notions and take a stance on your beliefs.

6 of Coins

6 of Coins shows that you are in a development phase where you learn and teach. It can also show income, material benefits, and possibly money coming in through education. You have knowledge with you, want to share experience, and create development for others.

Yiang: Orange-Purple

The combination of orange and purple indicates that you dare to have visions and dreams with your creativity. Orange energy provides stimulation, warmth, ideas, creativity, and spontaneity, while purple brings enlightenment, inner harmony, spiritual thinking, goals, and visions for the future. Together, they create an outstanding balance of pleasure and joy. It's a joyful energy but also committed and spontaneous, always involved in creation: rich fantasy life and a solid, expressive personality.

Astrology: Jupiter in Virgo

You know the situation and what is right and wrong, what is rewarding, and what should be avoided. You can easily make others see their potential and realize what they are meant for. You can be a good "Study guide" who understands the situation. You are good at listening and structuring what needs to be done. You focus strongly on most things you engage in and are goal-oriented. You may have good qualities in healing and care, or you can be a good planner or investor.

Bindrune: Madrez-Wynjaz

You are more confident in who you are and feel inner trust, anticipation, and joy over all that you can realize more of. Carve over the solar plexus to bring out more of your personality, joy, and spontaneity, and dare to express your expectations.

Wild Boar

Indicates that you are strong, know your worth, and act independently. You seize opportunities and learn to search even in the hidden. Develops a sense of smell and doesn't hesitate to delve deeper. Protects yourself by camouflaging with what you least suspect—clay, which also purifies your energy. You take it easy; everything has its time.

7 of Coins

Health - Health-Inspired Investment

7 of Coins shows that you need to get hold of what you want to achieve—your planning. You know what you have and can create; you look over your assets, place, and invest in what you believe in. You organize.

Yiang: Red-Purple

A vibrant combination of red and purple depicts foundation and imagination. Red signifies power, strength, and the spark to actualize, while purple carries inspiration and prophecy. Together, they reinforce each other, creating a solid base with inspiration. With this energy, your demeanor is colorful, determined, and intense. You have the potential to realize your visions. You are inspiring, clear-thinking, focused, goal-oriented, decisive, and sometimes unfocused. As new goals and visions take over, you may easily neglect what is essential.

Astrology: Saturn in Capricorn

You question security, materialistic boundaries, and values. You evaluate your qualities and capacity, which can lead to dissatisfaction. You aspire for more, both in creation and acquisition. While engaged, you might miss the bigger picture, as external appearances can often blind you.

Bindrune: Madrez-Fehaz

This bindrune helps you focus on the self-created through experience and strengthens your assets. With self-awareness and knowledge of what you have, you can further develop and complement it. Trust your experience to create more of what you wish to realize.

Wolverine

Seize everything that comes your way, stay ahead, and enjoy the abundance, whether you need to fix things yourself or stumble upon an already set table. You command respect but, unfortunately, also face disdain from those who fail to understand the value you bring or those who want things for themselves. Mark what you consider yours; you can navigate through anything, resistance is not an issue for you, you act on instinct. You possess strength and an awareness of life's laws and won't let anything go to waste; it's your responsibility to handle everything that comes your way, even if others were there first.

8 of Coins

8 in Coins shows that you can further develop most things. You know how to create more of what is—a chance to develop your interests further and trust more in your power. A financial dividend may also be in the works via insurance or sale.

Yiang: Red-Magenta

Red energy provides power, order, stability, and a solid foundation, while magenta strengthens all these. Magenta contains both red and blue, giving the red extra power. This combination indicates experience and a solid foundation to build upon. It also provides the energy to move forward, seeking development from the past. The energy strengthens your persistence and endurance, following the knowledge and routines you already possess. This energy suggests that you bring out more skills and talents in practical matters. You carry experience and the power to continue developing what has already been created. These colors are robust, indicating a solid foundation, connection with your past, trust in your experience, and your family. You are also goal-oriented, focused, dynamic, and strong-willed. What needs to be done will be done; you are patient and won't give up until you reach the planned outcome.

Astrology: Uranus in Capricorn

You don't overthink; you know your truth, stick to it, and seek answers and development based on that. You take one thing at a time, considering all aspects to ensure a solid foundation. You quickly see what others might miss; your strength lies in organizing everything into a perfect system for better understanding.

Bindrune: Ehiz-Fehaz

You are more aware of your foundation security and can reevaluate what has previously limited you. It's time to develop your potential further, restructure, see what you have, and act accordingly.

Reindeer

Indicates that you are persistent, enduring, and can handle a lot. You strive to follow an already inherited pattern that evolves. You are good at carrying others' burdens and maintaining a bit of distance; others can get close but not as close as they might think. It shows that you are stubborn, walking your path, and comfortable with who you are. Life continues generation after generation, and you are a part of a larger plan. You move along the usual tracks, but in your thoughts, ideas grow, complementing what you do, contemplating and finding evolution.)

9 of Coins

9 in Coins shows the positive unexpected from the environment, which can add extra money when you feel a completion of the economy. It also shows a larger social circle and joy with others in an easy way. You enjoy inviting yourself and socializing.

Yiang: Red-Turquoise

This combination of red and turquoise energy indicates the unexpected from the surroundings. It occurs when you feel a completion of what already exists and need to change what is.

Red energy brings foundation, strength, and seriousness, while turquoise brings seeking, development, and the unexpected in every situation. Turquoise always calls for change, a transformation of what is. Together, they provide a solid foundation where everything can and does happen. However, it can also create a contradiction where the red wants to stagnate and stay in what is secure, and the turquoise wants everything but to stand still. This energy is conscious of the potential for change. What you wish to accomplish is achievable; you become aware that there is development, a goal worth all sacrifices along the way.

Astrology: Neptune in Capricorn

You seek a foundation, understanding, and development in what you and your family believe. You try to find your truth, which may align with what you already know, but you must analyze it to be sure. If you are to travel, there should be a goal, a reward. You want to know what lies beyond so-called common sense and facts. You are meticulous in details, analyze, and gather all facts, leaving nothing to chance. You are somewhat of a loner, preferring to think through situations on your own and having the ability to internally experience anxiety without showing it outwardly. You take everything at your own pace, one thing at a time, starting from the beginning.

Bindrune: Naudiz-Pertraz

Naudiz provides awareness of who you are, your power, and your resources. With Pertraz, you create the foundation and advantages you desire.

Mole

Indicates that you know your stubbornness and patience and usually listen to your instinct. You dare to delve deep, saving your experiences after you've taken a bite. It shows that you are unique, walking your path and creating trails where no one else wants to be or fits. You are stubborn and aware of yourself. Seize everything to ensure you get what you want, gathering what you desire and creating piles of what you don't want. Enjoy life, relax, indulge in what you have. A mask here and there; did you notice a few extras? Enjoy.

10 of Coins

10 of Coins shows that you enjoy making things happen. You end up in the center because you offer yourself. You love gathering people around you and socializing in accessible, free forms. You are good at taking responsibility and directing. You have increased material standards.

Yiang: Yellow-Pink

Yellow signifies independence and awareness of your individuality. The pink vibration indicates open spirituality, positive trust, and spiritual inspiration. Together, they signify increased awareness of who you are from your soul's existence and your life's possibilities.

Astrology: Chiron in Earth Signs

Your weak point is fearing losing control over yourself and what is yours and being preoccupied with maintaining appearances. All are to be accepted, confirmed, and part of the community. It would be best if you dared to let go of a bit of your demands for perfection. Things can constantly improve, so why not accept things as they are? You have probably experienced many criticisms and complaints about yourself, making you feel inadequate no matter what. But in that, be content with yourself.

Bind Rune: Dagaz-Perthaz

Water to Earth can enrich, help you grow, provide support, dare to broaden your personality and presence, and be part of a community. Use it when you wish to develop more from your feelings to your personality, to take space, be present in what is, and contribute with your experiences.

Hedgehog

You enjoy being around others but also prefer going your own way. Beware of those who come too close. You decide who you want to connect with. Take everything at your own pace. Walk your path where your truth lies. Do what you are best suited for, and pay attention to your appearance and your abilities. Forget tedious responsibilities for a moment, dare to try something new, enrich your journey with new antics, and be open to every creature that crosses your path as they have something to share. You thrive best when it's quiet, especially at night when you can stroll without disturbances. Be vigilant about marking your territory despite your openness, demanding respect to be left in peace when needed. Take everything at your own pace, one step at a time convinced that everything has a purpose.

Page of Coins, a card symbolizing the start of various projects related to homes and finances, is now in focus. This addition to your reading reinforces the material standard and opens up more possibilities. The card's presence can indicate potential contributions or profit in these projects.

Yiang: Blue-Black

Blue energy indicates consciousness, clear thinking, and a strong identity, while black energy indicates the importance of the entirety of everything, knowing everything and having answers to everything. Together, they indicate an investigative questioning energy-seeking development in everything that exists. Blue energy is expression and identity; when strengthened by the black, it becomes more profound, severe, and analytical. When black weakens, expressions stagnate, and repetition becomes slower and weaker. The energy shows that you should develop something further; it could be studies, planning, or an investment. Now is the time to take on it as a project and build on it.

Astrology: Earth Signs

Children born in earth signs are often stable, calm, secure, and determined, and they quickly conclude and see reality. Their calm temperament can be difficult if they don't see motivation themselves. They may too quickly want to have the same patterns and routines all the time because it is safe and familiar. These children often do as we say and trust others easily as long as they see stability in what is done, becomes. These children can quickly become nervous and have problems with emotional outbursts, food, and sleep; they can easily take on too much. They want everything to stay within the frames they have as security. They can quickly develop habits, even from good things that become too much. They may also have an easy time setting strict demands on themselves and find it difficult to relax and get stuck in routines.

Personality Rune: Madrez-Naudiz-Madrez

Deer

You are shy, prefer to be alone, and wander at your own pace. Indicates that you are liked, happy, intense, know what you want, ensure you get it. Invincible even in resistance, always find a way out, and know that everything gives a new path forward. It can be perceived as carefree, a bit of a know-it-all due to trust that everything has a meaning. What you are sure of is that there is a future; whether you meet it in this form or not is not a concern but rather the knowledge that life is flexible, and so are you, what will be, you will win in some way.

Knight of Coins

Knight of Coins shows that you are in control of what you plan. You may also have received some extra security, possibly or probably money. You can make the most of what you have or create more resources.

Yiang: Blue-White

Blue signifies openness, communication, social behavior, and development. White indicates awareness, paying attention to the surroundings. Together, they indicate spiritual curiosity about everything that can be developed—a willingness to see and pay attention to what you can do in different situations.

Astrology: Earth Signs

Young men born in earth signs are determined to know what they want and how to achieve it, and patience seems not to be lacking. They can wait for the right moment or jump into projects already started and realize them themselves. Stubborn, never give up; that's almost the case in everything. They need strong motivation to tackle something; they are unwilling to try if they don't believe in it. They can sometimes overthink, weigh the pros and cons, or instead weigh the cons and pros. They are often very cautious. They can be a bit of a lone wolf, as they seem to believe they should do everything themselves. They can quickly not know what they want or if they want something. They can easily take too much responsibility and perceive everything as very serious. Changes can be perceived as very troublesome, not to mention inappropriate.

Personality Rune: Madrez-Hagalaz-Madrez

Elk (Moose)

You are a significant personality with enormous strength. You can conquer most things with time and patience. Indicates that you can value yourself, know who you are what is essential, and every step leads somewhere in life. Dare to stand for what you want to do, dare to show yourself, dare to take control. No one can miss you when you step forward, both sneaking and with direct steps. You are good at being a trailblazer, showing where the path leads. You can now choose to carry your greatness with pride and dare to look down on others who haven't come as far as you have. You've fought to get where you are.

Queen of Coins

Queen of Coins shows that you rely on order and order. You create stability and make sure everything is under control. You create structure, peace, and quiet. You thrive at home and with your surroundings in organizing.

Yiang: Yellow-Black

A calmness is created by solid conviction in the combination of yellow and black. The yellow energy indicates that you know what you want, understand your capabilities, and have a clear direction on how to achieve everything you want to realize. Yellow carries independence, willpower, and determination, being conscious of your identity. On the other hand, black brings the experience of everything, both negative and positive, and in this blend, it takes responsibility for your actions based on that experience. The black energy signifies knowledge you've developed, ranging from good to bad, and an awareness of your limits and possibilities. You know what you're capable of and how to accomplish it. This combination also represents awareness, clear thinking, focus, and motivation, creating more opportunities. Together, they signify action, swift events grounded in knowledge, and a strong belief in your resources and power to accomplish what matters. However, there's a caution that this black energy shouldn't dominate in the long run, as it may stagnate growth.

Astrology: Earth Signs

Women born under earth signs are often very stable and calm in their demeanor. They don't rush but prefer a leisurely pace. They must determine their rhythm and plan their schedule, and chaos ensues if disrupted. They appreciate order and everything in its place and resist significant changes in their surroundings without prior notice. They are keen on helping others and always being there when needed. While they don't seek to control others' lives, they can inadvertently impact others with their actions. They can become a bit rigid in their thinking at times. They are charming as long as everything goes according to their wishes. If they feel overlooked, they express their opinions strongly. They can be a bit inflexible and struggle to relax. They can't handle stress well and prefer everything to function moderately.

Personality Rune: Madrez-Assiz-Madrez

Llama

You are assertive and fight for what you believe in to get your way. Stubborn as sin, yet resilient, able to bear heavy burdens. You willingly share, warming those who are cold. Loyal to your own. Dare to show your actual value. It indicates integrity, self-worth, taking yourself seriously, enjoying self-care, and possessing various abilities. However, you are willful, deciding when, where, and how things should be done, and anyone attempting to change that faces trouble. Generous, present, very popular. You have much to offer in hard work and sharing to create harmony. Enjoy what is now, and be secure in who you are and what you bring.

King of Coins

King of Coins shows you create security and safety and make stable decisions. You strive for well-being on all levels. You create a safe and stable foundation with order and control. You create a strong community.

Yiang: Yellow-White

Yellow and white energy brings focused will and a solid forward focus. Yellow energy indicates awareness, clear thinking, a need for control, and intelligence in all three areas: physical, emotional, and mental. White energy signifies spiritual thinking, future visions, openness to change, and an open consciousness. Together, they create security, stability, sound decisions, and well-being, but they can also create confusion due to strong will and fleeting thoughts. They are clear-headed and focused together while being open to new areas in a controlled but adaptable development.

Astrology: Earth Signs

Men born in earth signs are secure and stable. They know themselves, don't unnecessarily stress, and have patience. They often have somewhat high demands since they know what perfection is and what works best. They are practical and can accomplish most things, especially since they take their time, are skilled, ambitious at their own pace. Versatile, they don't back down quickly and are a rock to lean on. They can have relationship problems as they have high demands, constantly seeking all elements to confirm them. They quickly take responsibility but primarily look for their interests; everything has its time. Their demands on the environment can easily create conflicts; they go their own way when it doesn't suit them. They trust mainly themselves, wanting everything to be their way. Once they've made a plan, it should ideally be followed through, even if changes might be needed.

Personality Rune: Madrez-Algiz-MadrezBuffalo

You are large, strong, self-assured, with a firm foothold in life, knowing that everything always works out. You are somewhat of a jack-of-all-trades with a deep inner self. Indicates that you easily believe in miracles and prayer's power (to whoever you pray, be it your god or the universe). You see the whole picture and understand why certain things must happen. You may not understand the act or event itself, but you trust there is a reason for what happened. Everything has a meaning. You accept it, but you can also use the power of prayer to try to improve a situation. Accept that you want to live in joy and abundance, for the buffalo symbolizes abundance, using all parts for what is needed. You easily create assets and wealth with Buffalo as a totem.

Ace of Swords

Ace of Swords shows all possibilities, creation from the power of thought. You have all the power with you to create what is. More significant events that you are a co-creator of and in. New ideas and innovative thinking. Reboot and fresh start.

Yiang: Blue

With blue energy comes mental strength, intelligence, and understanding—the clear-thinking, conscious energy responsible for actions—an expression search. With blue, there is energy for various roles and personal identity. Blue is about expression and communication, standing in your truth, being honest, fair, thoughtful, wise, detached, and having perspective. The attitude mentioned refers to self-evident identity, like working on your personality and strengthening yourself. Stand up for yourself, be present, primarily with yourself.

Astrology: Mercury in Gemini

Indicating that you are articulate and have the gift of speech, not just speech, you can easily express yourself when you want. You can gesture with your whole body, clearly showing when you are happy or sad. You can also be over-communicative, constantly seeking new ideas to evolve. You have difficulty questioning the initial thought to see if it can be something else. You may be perceived as outgoing by others, but at the same time, you can sort people out; some feel that they can't get close to you no matter how pleasant you can be in the encounter.

Bindrune: Naudiz-Tyraz

These are equivalent regardless of which rune you carve first. Naudiz strengthens Tyraz with thoughtful action, and Tyraz strengthens Naudiz with more power for decisions. Use this bindrune when you need to be decisive in your actions where you know the consequences, but remember that Naudiz comes first in the runic chain. You now have all the possibilities to be in your truth, change, and reshape to the best for you.

Seagull

Indicates that freedom matters most to you, to be your own without demands, to go your way. You easily survive any situation and are used to being misunderstood, but you don't care if you can float freely in your own space. Shows that you prefer to be your own and enjoy just following the paths without responsibility. You are a lover of freedom, in it, a romantic who takes everything as it comes but doesn't like demands and responsibilities. Life should be lived here and now. Take the chance, go on an adventure, and realize your ambitions.

2 of Swords

2 of Swords shows you are calm, waiting, harmonious, and philosophical with reflection. You have reached an inner peace and are in no rush to continue in any direction; you choose to relax and wait. You feel a sense of relief, inner peace and harmony.

Yiang: Blue-Indigo

This card features the intellect in blue and the depth of insight in indigo. It can indicate that your maturation will continue, but you have no pressure on yourself. The combination creates profound insights that make you pause, reflect, and dare to go deeper into yourself. It can also bring a waiting and an inner stillness that evolves into seeking further.

Astrology: Moon in Gemini

You can quickly oscillate between different emotional expressions; it's neither black nor white. You may find it challenging to be in the present; your thoughts are in one place, your feelings in another, but you are very adaptable in between. You may be reserved because you don't always know what you feel. When you have a feeling; then you should step back and analyze it before you can feel it again. Some may find it hard to understand and express it while completely uncomprehending; you are just expressing your feelings. You might miss that your emotions range from black to white; you can create erratic behavior by changing your mind according to the feeling that affirms you. It would be best to think about being clearer, as your sensitive flexibility sometimes seems distancing can create more resistance than you desire.

Bindrune: Madrez-Bjarkaz

When you want to develop your personality, foundation, and values, find more from your heritage: Madrez, indicating yourself, Bjarkaz, on your genetic heritage from generations and past lives. You know more about who you are; perhaps you need to pause and reflect on your capacity to realize more.

Crow

It shows you are a bit mysterious; others never really know where they stand with you. You always have a twinkle in your eye, but of what significance? You are meticulous about living your life in your own way. Indicates wisdom, the knowledge that there are more layers to the dimension you are in, aware of your own shadow, your own karmic choice, and knowing that life is only an illusion. You are good at transforming yourself, fitting in, blending in where you need to be for the moment. Carries wisdom about your choices and respects others as it is their illusion, not yours. You seek change, see the depth, and understand from different perspectives and energies. It is now time for you to bring out all your knowledge. Act with your will; you have everything with you; it is time to gather others for your purpose. Change, let go of what has been, enjoy your adaptability, your ability to see into the future; what awaits is your path.

3 of Swords

3 of Swords shows that you are in the middle of something unpleasant; you need to let go, downplay your role, and not make demands but find peace in what is. You can break up, let go of relationships, or refuse to let them go. You may be generally annoyed that you don't get what you want.

Yiang: Blue-Purple

In this combination, the blue provides wisdom, self-identity, and security, while the purple brings seeking, inspiration, and consciousness. It's an exciting energy combination; the blue energy enhances your wisdom, self-identity, and desire to create. Meanwhile, the purple energy brings inspiration and consciousness. The combination results in impatience, a restless search for truth at its most intense. Above all, it indicates that you know yourself, your goals, dreams, and what you long to realize.

Astrology: Venus in Gemini

It shows that you want a lot and have demands that what you want should happen, but you're moody in your feelings, and it can change quickly. You go by your feelings; if it doesn't feel right, you turn away; if it feels good, you give it your all. There's an inner longing for new experiences, preferably with a romantic touch. You might be perceived as demanding because you quickly change opinions and values, not caring about what was before, only that the current feels good. You can develop new ideas; you have an inner courage that makes you dare more than others. You can also take things lightly, while others may find it hard to let go and make them more significant than they are. You may seem complicated while being relatively simple; you live by your feelings, constantly leading you down new paths. You seek renewal, wanting to experience aspects other than those already present. You have restlessness and a fear of missing out, but the positive aspect is that you don't settle for routines.

Bind Rune: Hagalaz-Uhruz

Use this binding rune when you need to restructure your strength, release muscle tension, or feel limited in your communication. You are now in a phase where you are more aware of your patterns but may struggle to hold onto them out of old (false) "security."

Hawk

This indicates that you are an intense person who gives your all, acts directly, and takes responsibility. You are often public, responsible for ensuring everything you undertake works. It indicates that you have extra power, an incredible capacity to realize what you have in sight—determined, focused, active. It prefers collaboration, letting someone else take responsibility, so you can take your flight when there's something to gain while gliding around or feeling confirmed for who you are. You can patiently wait for your time; you will be informed when it comes and must act immediately.

4 of Swords

4 of Swords shows that you have difficulty moving on yourself and do not believe in yourself. You seek peace, perhaps not by choice. It would be best if you had a stillness and needed a slower pace. You may feel stuck, stubborn, unmotivated, and give up easily without even trying.

Yiang: Blue-Magenta

Blue represents willpower, strength, and motivation, while magenta symbolizes stagnation, seriousness, and thoroughness. Together, they can create a short circuit of energy. Take a step forward, then take one back; experience anxiety about taking the step and also about the possibility of nothing happening, leading to confusion. With magenta, there is depth in all the knowledge available, creating uncertainty about moving forward or trying something new. However, blue is strong and wants to express itself, constantly pushing forward.

Bind Rune: Hagalaz-Madrez

You need to pause now and reflect on who you are, who you want to be, and who you can be. Restructure what doesn't give you a push and let go of what keeps you stuck in old patterns. Use this bind rune when you need to restructure, change something physical, find your basic form, or create balance in your DNA.

Woodpecker

Indicates that you are intense, know what you want, do not hesitate, and take what you want, even at the expense of others. You are skilled with rhythm and could likely become a good musician if not for others, then for your own sake. It shows that you quickly become focused on one thing, which can ruin things for others but hopefully give you what you seek. You are persistent in what you want to do and need rhythm, routines, and repetitions to feel satisfied. Good at moving forward, upward, perhaps at the expense of others. You have found something that occupies your time, which is fine as long as you learn to look around. Is this the best for the moment, or have you just rushed into it? Use all your strength to delve into the core and find the answer.

5 of Swords

5 of Swords shows that you are anything but calm or harmonious. Instead, you may feel crowded and rushed and find it difficult to concentrate; most things are entirely different from what you wish for. You have difficulty listening to yourself or stopping to breathe.

Yiang: Blue-Turquoise

If you inquire about your energy with Blue-Turquoise, it indicates that you are now in an expressive energy. Expression is undergoing a change where you want to bring out more of yourself. You gain respect and are taken more seriously, while it can be challenging for others to keep up with your strong focus and desire for improvement. Blue indicates identity and communication. Turquoise shows the step towards self-awareness (which may not always be easy), an awareness that you are more than just a personality. Blue indicates identity and communication. Together, it is positive that you dare to develop, question, and seek more than before. The negative aspect is that you may struggle to find harmony within your role with others. You may quickly end up in conflicts when you don't know your values or who you are. Values change with development. Inner conflicts can be the most prominent, not having security and trust in yourself or others.

Astrology: Mars in Libra

You can speak out strongly, then almost immediately apologize. You seem undecided about whether to get angry or show that you are. Is it worth it? It would be best to learn to handle your expression with the caution you carry. It is good when mediating between others, but it can also become an energy that pushes you down, allowing others to take advantage of you.

Bind Rune: Hagalaz-Laguz

From Hagalaz, there is the energy of change restructuring what already exists, and from Laguz, there is empathy, feeling, and trust in just going with the flow. You may simultaneously be in an emotional and mental change, thoughts and feelings creating minor chaos, feeling one thing, thinking another, and creating confusion about the next step.

Magpie

You enjoy being in the center, in the thick of things, observing, trying to get what you need for pleasure. Intelligent, intense, chatty. It shows that you are independent but in need of your group, stubborn, determined, take care of your own house, take what is needed, fascinated by anything that glitters, a bit self-centered. Enjoys like-minded individuals, exchanging comments, listening to gossip, listening to what is said; which way are the winds turning? Fly without resistance, see what is there after your path, and consider whether everything that comes your way can give you something in the next event.

6 of Swords

6 of Swords shows inner harmony. You can experience relief and inner freedom. You have achieved the goals you have set. You give yourself time, and you have peace of mind. It is probably a journey underway, mentally or physically, more private time.

Yiang: Indigo

Indigo indicates wisdom, intelligence, serious thinking, and strong intuition—the energy of consciousness, clarity, and clairvoyance. Indigo is the most profound energy of insights.

Astrology: Jupiter in Libra

You always seek to create balance, making you appear meticulous, picky, and constantly questioning, all to gain more security. When you have it, you do what needs to be done correctly, leaving nothing aside. You have no ambitions to be a leader or control, but you demand that everything be in order and that everyone takes responsibility. You can be a bit of a jack-of-all-trades, dealing with what needs to be balanced or organized. You may have interests in natural sciences, books, and libraries. You often create sound finances as you accumulate value.

Bindrune: Madrez-Assiz

You are self-aware, but in doing so, you oscillate from being more to being less. Your emotions create development, but in the meantime, you may feel limited, deep, and confused about what you can achieve.

Dove

It shows that you enjoy having people around you who are very social and dedicated to creating peace and freedom for all.

Optimistic spreads joy, but you may need to learn that some sometimes wish you were quiet. It shows that you are good at mediating peace in crises and should trust that you always get the right insights and spiritual guidance in what you do. Now is the time to find inner peace, pause, enjoy the harmony around you, dare to be in silence, and find the charm in being yourself.

7 of Swords

7 of Swords shows that you take hold of what you have been thinking about for a while. You have an inner goal that you realize. It can be decisions such as moving or changing jobs. It can also show on short trips. You act independently.

Yiang: Indigo-Purple

Indigo signifies wisdom, intelligence, solemn contemplation, strong intuition that turns into insight, intuition, and the ability to create visions and dreams. Purple enhances these qualities, bringing out more inspiration and will in development. Purple energy is like indigo but more intense, open, extroverted, engaged, and exploratory. Together, they clarify spiritual identity, intuitive self-awareness, and a longing for development. These two energies create extraordinary capabilities in faith. Even though they are higher vibrational energies, there is still a foundation, a rationale, not just a pursuit of spiritual development.

Astrology: Saturn in Aquarius

You question life, everything related to existence. What is right and what is wrong? Who sets the limits? To be creative, you can be pressed to find new areas and things that stimulate you. You are disappointed when it doesn't match your creative ideal. You want to find new solutions, to find the truth in others, but you don't always see your role.

Bind Rune: Mardrez-Reidiz

Use it to increase awareness of your power and inner longing for realization. It helps you become more aware of what you wish to realize, create more freedom, and gain the strength to choose your path.

Hawk

Wants you to understand that you are a mediator who should spread your knowledge to others. Dare to scream, tell what you see, don't analyze but absorb the message that comes to you, for you are receptive. It shows that you can circle your prey and what you want until you can grab hold of it; your patience and endurance are vital. You know everything has a purpose; you must be attentive to everything that happens, not just what interests you. You are in a change phase where you must listen to yourself, your instincts, your impulses, and what is happening around you.

8 of Swords

8 of Swords shows that you feel lost and worried. Poor self-confidence, have no faith in yourself. You feel hopeless and see no possibility of being able to accomplish anything. You neither believe nor feel that the environment is there for you.

Yiang: Indigo-Magenta

Indigo indicates spiritual wisdom and a longing to realize what the soul strives for. At the same time, magenta indicates reality, the foundation that has been created, and the possibilities based on accumulated experience. Magenta is composed of red and blue, emphasizing red, giving it a foundation and stability. But with the blue, it also signifies development and a search for identity. Together, they signify a search and development of what has been and what will be a holistic view.

Astrology: Uranus in Aquarius

You cannot settle for what is about life and death. You know there is more than that, probably life on other planets, parallel universes, parallel lives, and everything else to be explored. You may sometimes lose hope in all you seek, but you will continue to find more eventually. You are a true visionary but tend to make things more complicated than they are.

Bind Rune: Ehiz-Madrez

It is a perfect bind rune when you need to change something about yourself, become more aware, release a dependency, or change your body shape. You need to self-analyze from the ground up, from feeling and letting go of thoughts about what you think you are.

Ostrich

It shows that you are quick on your feet and thrive quickly, especially with others, adventure, and new horizons. You listen to what you want to do and act independently and purposefully. This indicates that you live at a fast pace, ready to take off at full speed if you think it's necessary, and with no hesitation, you act immediately. You are brave, curious, and want to know what's behind every corner. You know that if it doesn't fit, you are free to move on, even if you need companionship, currently in a period where you're looking around, listening, and then choosing to act on your own decision.

9 of Swords

9 of Swords shows inner anxiety and inner conflicts but also loneliness and despair. You may find it difficult to relax, stress throughout your body, and difficulty concentrating. You may struggle to let go of fixed ideas or lock yourself in negative thoughts.

Yiang: Indigo-Turquoise

Indigo indicates deep thoughts, insights (sometimes difficult to bear), and more life-determining thoughts. Turquoise indicates questioning the changes created by being on the wrong path. Together, they indicate significant developmental mental and spiritual changes, but it doesn't mean that everything flows smoothly. It would be best to clear out what is not in balance with your inner self.

Astrology: Neptune in Aquarius

You are good at creating and spreading contacts and expanding networks and areas. You may also have good skills in data and technology, which could be one of your primary interests. You may find it challenging to understand others' values, the value of all the energy you put in, and even others' occupations since you can be absorbed in what is in the moment. You have the talent to innovate, create new values, and find solutions.

Bind Rune: Ehiz-Uhruz

With Uhruz as support, you can bring out more motivation and inner strength in the changes you wish to make. It would be best to reflect on your strength and motivation; perhaps you take yourself too seriously, listening too much to others instead of yourself.

Cuckoo

You have a knack for getting away and passing responsibilities to others. You have learned to manipulate and do it well—perhaps too well—so well that you probably deceive yourself in everything you are involved in. You see and sense so much; you know most things, unfortunately, including how to get away with things. It's time to see your greatness and ability, dares to take responsibility for what you do best, and change the conditions for others.

10 of Swords

10 of Swords shows the experience of inner emptiness and unpleasant stillness. You have no power or ambition; you neither think nor see any possibilities and despair of not controlling what is. You may be sad, depressed, or powerless.

Yiang: Purple

The purple energy indicates spiritual inspiration, openness, daring to look forward, see yourself, your role, your soul, and the meaning you have in your life. With purple comes spiritual joy, joy in life. Spiritual courage is the inner power of inspiration that strengthens your personality. This energy is searching and open, with spiritual spontaneity and inspiration. Listen to intuition, the inner voice—the Soul's impulse. You are an open, spontaneous personality with much to give to others without being aware. You spread inspiration and self-worth by following your intuition, your inner voice.

Astrology: Chiron in air signs

Your weak point is that you can't settle for what you already know and can; you constantly have to challenge yourself. It's good to be a visionary and evolve here on Earth. You probably have many promising visions and ideas; take the time to develop them in balance. Stop caring about what others think; what you do that matters in your life. By being a visionary, you can help release many good ideas.

Bind Rune: Ehiz-Pertraz

There are past patterns and the foundation and stability of who you are, but you must strengthen them. You need to pause and let go of demands, musts, and programming to realize who you are from the ground up—it's time to bake to find your way back to yourself.

Vulture

It shows that you know where to take advantage and do so without having worked hard for it. You stay alert to what is happening, where you can get the best, and keep yourself ahead. Indicates that you are patient, persistent with trust in life, know you are in the right place, that everything has its time, and that you get what you need. Look around; there's something to take advantage of that someone else has left behind; seize your chance, see what's offered, and act now.

Page of Swords

Page of Sword shows that some messages and decisions now affect you and what you intend to do. But some decisions need to be made now. Some messages affect the whole and create something new.

Yiang: Indigo-Black

Indigo indicates spiritual awareness, future dreams, and clear visions. Black indicates knowledge and experience of what already exists, from which a strong will and conviction arise. There are strong and weak aspects because the black strengthens and weakens. Positively, there is more weight for indigo to pause in itself and its reflections. Negatively, black energy can weigh down indigo and cause it to become more isolated and introverted.

Astrology: Air Signs

Children born in airplanes are often on adventures; they want to know, experience, and meet as many people as possible. They are the children who ask the most - Why? They are curious and eager to be everywhere so they don't miss anything. They can talk themselves into everything they want. They can be very stubborn, don't give up easily, but know what they want. Often thinking more in an "easy way" can have difficulty anchoring it to the ground, prefer to avoid responsibility, instead be like a straw for the wind, go where something is happening. They want to socialize and converse and can be incredibly charming, even if you might not remember everything they discuss. They can surprise others with new thoughts and ideas. They can be perceived as superficial and have difficulty creating close contact because they don't always have time to catch up. It can go so fast that they don't always catch up, and instability and a lousy mood arise because they cannot attach their thoughts to anything.

Personality Rune: Hagalaz-Naudiz-Hagalaz

Hummingbird

You should bring out much more of your joy in life because it is there; you have a lot of love and zest for life within you. You can make others feel good just by your presence; you give love or chirp a bit of joy, and you get a response. You may need to feel the meaning of inspiring. It means that you should see your possibilities, not your limitations, dare more than you think is possible, see your power and your resources, believe in yourself, and realize that you will permanently blind someone with your neat appearance in what you do. Keep the feeling of happiness in everything happening around you and continue to float on the nectar of life served to you. Because you are now in just the right place for you, float above everything, enjoy life.

Knight of Swords

Knight of Swords shows that there is now activity. There are many events and happenings simultaneously, fast-paced events, intensity, turbulence, and many ideas to be tried, for better or worse.

Yiang: Indigo-White

Indigo indicates wisdom, an open spiritual mind, creative power, and awareness of what can be. White shows openness, a desire to know more, believe, and trust your visions, strengthening your creative power. Together, the energy is there to strengthen the creative power within you. With indigo and white energy, you are in mental spheres.

Astrology: Air Signs

Young men born in air signs have their own will and are quick to events and changes. They know where they stand; it's most comfortable as long as the rest is moving. They can be very confident, question a lot, and sometimes create problems and turbulence because they have thought about it their way. They are active, always in the center of events, and need not necessarily be the focal point. They know where they stand; they rarely need external confirmation. They are determined in their opinion, logical, and clear-thinking. They quickly see many possibilities simultaneously and sometimes want to turn their coat too quickly. Sometimes, they can be perceived as scattered because they have difficulty deciding. Life offers many possibilities, at least in the world of thoughts.

exist for them; they create everything themselves. They have high self-esteem yet are humble, aware of their power and extensive knowledge. They are quick-witted, quickly create what they want, and deal with many events, a vigorous intensity around such a man. They can quickly lose their temper, leading to tumult; in the worst case, it's like a hurricane sweeping through, and they lose their heads entirely.

Personality Rune: Hagalaz-Algiz-Hagalaz

Peacock

You have a lesson in being visible; you can't be invisible. It's the idea of your life; it's time for you to show your exterior, at least primarily, for no one can miss it. Let them come closer to examine what's beneath all that splendor. If it doesn't suit you, you can always let someone else admire you until you find the right one who sees all of you. It would be best if you found a balance; you are seen and heard, needing both to see your greatness yourself and let others become aware. You present yourself; many may be fooled into thinking you can do more than you can if you follow the code that should apply. But not you; you go off in your way, entirely aware that no one will miss you. You know you have power through others; you can blind them externally, even with all you have to say. Even if they don't like it, it's their problem, not yours; you know what you need to express. It's time for you to show that you have no borrowed feathers but stand for all of yourself. Take your place, dare to show off a little, and create sensations because you need attention; you must make sure you create it, but it's easy; you must stretch out a little.
